No Cancellation.
Dictators Get Action.
Ishii Warns Us.
What We Read.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MR. GARNER, Speaker of the House, who may be nominated by the Democrats next week, announces publicly what his friends already knew, that he favors repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

He voted against the amendment in Congress, and has naturally not changed his mind, since the prohibition - bootleg-crime - racketeering - gangster wave started.

LAUSANNE REPORTS that Mr. Gibson, representing the United States at the disarmament conference, where the United States has no business, has suggested to France that this nation will consent to a cancellation of its war debt, ONLY if armaments are reduced.

Politicians may suggest cancellation of the debts, but this NATION will not consent. Whoever arrogates to himself the right to cancel foreign debts, with millions of Americans idle, and this nation confessing inability to pay the veterans' bonus, will show that he knows little about public opinion.

THERE IS something in dictatorship. It gets things done. The Russians are on the way to finish their "five-year plan" in four years. Their dictator, named Stalin, is no imitation.

Mussolini has a five-year plan that includes rebuilding Rome, and connecting it with the sea by a ship canal. A great new harbor, to be built, will be named Port Mussolini.

Mr. Punch, of London, contemplating these five-year plans, sorrowfully observes that London has taken almost 10 years to make up its mind what to do about Waterloo Bridge, to move it, or leave it where it is.

VISCOUNT ISHII, recently Japanese ambassador in Washington, welcoming our diplomatic representative, Mr. Grew, in Tokio, warns the United States, politely, but firmly, to keep "hands off" in Asia. Viscount Ishii says only one of two things could start war between his country and this country.

"First, if Japan were foolish enough to interfere unduly in the Western Hemisphere.

"Second, if America attempted to dominate Asia."

HEAVEN KNOWS, America is innocent of any dominating impulse. At the silly Washington conference, this country agreed not to fortify Guam, so conveniently located, or to establish adequate air bases in the Philippines. We are as mild as mush and milk.

It might enlighten some in Washington to read the memoirs of Von Bulow, formerly German imperial chancellor, especially the chapter dealing with his efforts to prevent war between Japan and Russia. The Russians said:

"Japan would never dare attack Russia."

But Japan did dare, and Russia was badly beaten.

TODAY, SOME of us will read about politics, some about Europe's debts, amounting to ten billions, one hundred dollars for every one of our unemployed, some will read about science, some about crime. ALL, WITH FEW EXCEPTIONS, WILL READ ABOUT THE SCHMELING - SHARKEY PRIZE FIGHT.

Future historians will find in that national interest in the effort of one man to beat another with his fists, no principle or righteous cause being involved, much information concerning what we humorously call our "civilization."

TWO LITTLE sons of Charlie Chaplin, six and seven years, are under contract to appear in moving pictures. The French say bon chien chasse de race, which means that hunting dogs inherit their qualities.

There is no doubt that acting is inherited more often than other kinds of human ability. But even there, inheritance is rare.

You can count on your fingers, and have several left over, all the really GREAT sons of great fathers. There were Pitt and his father, both buried in the same grave in Westminster. What others can you name, off hand? Philip and Alexander, Frederick the Great and his father, won't do, fathers not great enough.

TODAY, FORMER Gov. Alfred E. Smith, John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, and Frank Hague, Mayor of Jersey City, will all arrive in Chicago. These four, with Mayor Cermak, of Chicago, are supposed to represent opposition to the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt. They all understand politics and conventions, to put it mildly.

They are not visionaries that "listen with credulity to the whispers of fancy," or "pursue with eagerness the phantoms of hope." Ask Mayor Hague to pursue any phantom of hope, and he will answer:

"Nothing doing."

Senator Borah announces publicly that he will not support President Hoover. In private he says he will start no third party, no "bull-mooser" for him.

He will make speeches supporting dry candidates for Congress, watch the campaign roll on, and predicts that "that singular document," the Republican platform, will have been shoved aside as the campaign begins to face "realities of the

INSTRUCTOR ARRESTED, SUSPENDED

Junior High School Teacher Held After Parents of Girl Pupil File Charges

Marlin E. Hilty, 35, of 772 Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, teacher and Boy Scout leader at Latimer Junior High School, North Side, was rearrested when arraigned in Morals Court today on charges brought by a mother in behalf of her 15-year-old daughter, a pupil of the school.

First arrested last night when he returned from a faculty outing, Hilty was suspended today by Superintendent of Schools Ben G. Graham.

TRAILED BY WIFE

Magistrate T. D. Jones, in Morals Court, announced he had no jurisdiction but that informations charging Hilty with a statutory offense had been filed before him as an alderman by the girl's mother and that he would hear the case in that capacity. Warrants were served on Hilty. The girl did not appear.

Hilty's wife is said to have first learned of her husband's alleged associations with the girl when she followed him to the latter's home on the North Side. She and the girl's parents then complained to Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Hilty is alleged to have invited the girl to his home several times.

LAUDED BY PRINCIPAL

Louis F. Lutton, principal of the school, expressed surprise when he heard of Hilty's arrest. He said:

"The whole thing is preposterous. I can't believe it. It must be a mistake. He is the leader of our Boy Scout troop and everybody has found him a man of excellent character."

300 VETS HERE SET TO MARCH

Undaunted by Congress' refusal to grant them immediate cash bonus payment, Pittsburgh's second detachment of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces, estimated at 300 veterans, wives and children, today was preparing to march on Washington Friday morning at 4 o'clock.

James J. McGrath, commander of the "Strip Troops," already bivouacked at Camp Marks, Washington, arrived here this morning to organize the marchers, assisted by B. F. Miller, commander of the East Liberty, Homewood and Brushton troops. Both men carried "orders" signed by W. W. Waters, national bonus army commander.

Miller's plea was:

"We need blankets for the 66 children in camp; milk, sugar and smoked meats. Allegheny County's veterans have the poorest shelter of any group in Washington."

Twenty-five veterans forming a vanguard of the second bonus brigade, left their encampment under the north end of the Sixth Street Bridge this afternoon for Sharpsburg, where they will catch a freight train for Washington.

'DON'T Change Toboggans When You Are Going Down Hill. Vote for Hoover.'

The above slogan has been submitted by a reader who thinks it admirably suits the situation. However, we do not know that it has been formally adopted by the Republican Campaign Committee.

HOOVER ASKS 33 PCT. CUT IN ARMIES

Makes Dramatic Plea to Geneva; Ban on Tanks, Chemical Warfare Asked

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—President Hoover, in a sudden and dramatic announcement at the White House today, proposed principles for reducing the arms of the entire world by nearly one-third.

With Secretary Stimson at his side, the President read to a small group of newspapermen hurriedly assembled at the executive mansion a statement saying that "the time has come when we should cut through the brush" and adopt arms reductions calculated to save between $10,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000 during the next 10 years.

ABOLISH TANKS

He proposed among other things:

Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns.

Reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above "the so-called police component."

"The abolition of all bombing planes, and the "total prohibition of all bombardment from the air."

Reduction in the treaty number and tonnage of all battleships by one-third.

Reduction in the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers by one-fourth and of submarines by one-third with no nation having more than 35,000 tons of submersibles.

GIVEN GENEVA

Mr. Hoover's broad and drastic plan was placed before the Geneva conference today.

The principles enunciated by the chief executive for slicing the world's araments by 33 per cent were given as follows:

"First — The Kellogg - Briand pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.

"Second—This reduction should be carried out not only by broad general cuts in armaments but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of the attack.

PRESERVE STATUS QUO

"Third — The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such relativity should be preserved in making reductions.

"Fourth—The reductions must be real and positive. They must first effect economic relief.

"Fifth—There are three prob-

He made this statement as a result of the action of Judge Thomas Watson in jailing W. D. McBride, of Butler, and directing Charles Flick, of Bakerstown, to show cause why the latter should not be held in contempt of court, after McBride informed the court Flick made propositions to him in the jury "fix" cases.

Sharkey Fight Starts Battle on Houseboat

A dispute over Sharkey and Schmeling during the fight last night caused a battle on a houseboat. One man was removed to a hospital and a father and son were arrested.

Charles Smith, 38, and his nephew, Alex Smith, 16, who live on the boat, were hearing the fight over the radio. Alex told police today that his uncle struck him. The youth called his father, James Smith, and the two men fought. Charles Smith was hit on the head with a hammer. He is suffering a probable fracture of the skull. The father and son are being held.

MAX' MANAGER HITS DECISION

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Violent controversy raged in fistic circles today over the decision last night which crowned Jack Sharkey, of Boston, as the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Max Schmeling, of Germany, deprived of his title, was a crushed and broken-hearted young man and his followers—particularly his manager, Joe Jacobs—set up an indignant cry of "robbery."

As a result of his blast over the

Sharkey Victor on Points And Haircuts, 'Bugs' Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, June 22.—Jack Sharkey won the championship of the world on points and four hair cuts.

The nervous Bostonian couldn't keep his hair out of his eyes. After the third round his seconds staked him to a boyish bob and he fought a little better.

But he was still missing and chopping low with his right. At the finish of the fourth he got another barbecue in his corner. The fourth haircut at the end of the sixth won the contest. He came out for the seventh with curly bangs and slapped Schmeling around for enough rounds to grab the official groceries.

Buckley showed great generalship in handling Jack. Especially after the flashlight ceremonies before the fight when Jack started to leave the ring with the photographers.

His manager grabbed him and dragged him back. Jack is excitable that way but he stayed to win the world's prize. And he earned it, for his face was the eastern terminal for many a wicked right crack. Schmeling kept walking in on Sharkey, but when the German grasshopper got to the middle of the web he found the Boston spider waiting for him with plenty of gloves.

There was no doubt that Sharkey won most of the rounds on good, clean punching and jabbing. And there is no doubt that the German is a great puncher and can absorb more beating than the seat of a bad boy's pants.

In addition to Sharkey's superior physical endowments, poor old Max couldn't understand how a man can take four quick haircuts and get stronger. Samson took only one from Delilah and it whipped him.

MUST REPLY TO SEABURY CHARGES

State Executive Calls on Mayor to Make Answer; Political Results Watched

ALBANY, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Roosevelt, leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, today asked Mayor Walker, of New York City, to answer charges that he is unfit and should be removed from office.

Six days before the Chicago convention opens to pass upon Mr. Roosevelt's qualifications to head his party, he laid the accusations of Samuel Seabury and groups of civic organizations before the Tammany administrator of the world's second largest city.

Mr. Roosevelt did not fix a time within which the Mayor should file his reply. It is probable, however, that Walker's reply will not reach the executive before the battle of ballots opens on Lake Michigan.

In eight short sentences, Roosevelt advised the Mayor that the next move was his. When he replies, the Governor likely will call a public hearing in Albany, at which Walker will face Seabury across the Governor's desk in the reception room of the executive suite.

POLITICAL ANGLE

Political observers are interested to see what influence Mr. Roosevelt's disposition of the proceedings will have on his political future.

Will Tammany support him should Walker be ousted?

Will the South and West be friendly if he does not?

Those are the inquiries that political writers ask. Mr. Roosevelt has warned against speculation, holding that he acts as a judge when called upon to pass upon the fitness of public officials.

This is the second time that Gov. Roosevelt has called upon Mayor "Jimmy" for a reply to charges that he was unfit to serve as the executive of the largest American city.

A year ago last April, Dr. John Haynes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, executives of the city affairs committee, asked the Governor to dismiss the Mayor. Walker's defense was laid on Roosevelt's desk two weeks later and the Governor subsequently declared he had not found a cause for removal.

REPLY DELAYED

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker said today that he would not begin work on his formal answer to allegations by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter Legislative Committee, until he returns from the Democratic national convention.

AL ARRIVES IN CHICAGO FOR FIGHT

'Happy Warrior' to Battle N. Y. Governor to Finish; For Prohibition Repeal

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Renewed demands for a prohibition repeal submission plank came from Democratic chieftains today as they assembled on the convention scene for the preliminary maneuvers of the battle for the presidential nomination.

Alfred E. Smith, a leader of the fight against Franklin D. Roosevelt, demanded repeal of prohibition and immediate revision of the Volstead act.

He was his own favorite for the presidential nomination and expected to join in the fight to make Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, permanent chairman of the convention.

TEST OF STRENGTH

On this fight will come the first test of the strength of the Roosevelt forces. They are supporting Senator Walsh, of Montana, for the post.

Smith's arrival and prohibition statement, following that yesterday of Speaker John N. Garner for repeal, and the approach of William G. McAdoo, expected to arrive today to lead the Garner nomination drive, set the Democratic political pulse pounding.

Mrs. Smith, her face almost hidden by a bunch of orchids, posed with her husband.

VOTE ON RELIEF DUE TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—Despite failure of efforts to limit debate, the Senate today pressed forward on the $2,000,000,000 Democratic unemployment rwelief bill with leaders hopeful of a vote before nightfall.

Meanwhile, in a statement off the floor Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, charged that the administration is seeking to force an adjournment of Congress before a relief bill is passed.

Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, objected to a proposal by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, to limit debate on the gigantic relief bill. La Follette said he wanted time to present his case for the amendment he has offered to increase the proposed public works bonds issue from $500,000,000 to $5,500,000,000.

Meanwhile, Speaker Garner told newspapermen he understood the $300,000,000 Wagner bill, already passed by the Senate and now before the Banking Committee, would be added to the $2,000,000,000 measure before the Senate as a substitute for his own measure.

GARNER REPEAL DEMAND IRKS ROOSEVELT STRADDLERS

SPEAKER SPURS BLOC URGING SHOWDOWN

Smith Friends' Opposition To Side-Stepping Adds to Woe of Governor's Backers

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

Washington, June 22.—The proposal of the "Roosevelt senatorial bloc" to submerge the prohibition issue by confining the Democratic platform declaration to resubmission had suffered a series of rude shocks today.

Although this movement on the part of the Roosevelt forces was carried on vigorously among senators who may be members of the platform committee, they had less hope of avoiding a showdown on repeal in the convention.

The announcement of Speaker John N. Garner, of the House, a formidable candidate for the Democratic nomination, that he favors repeal, created a stir among the Roosevelt forces here.

SHOWDOWN DEMAND

Declarations by friends of Gov. Alfred E. Smith that they will demand a showdown on prohibition cast further dismay in the ranks of those who hoped to "soft-pedal" the issue at Chicago.

Despite the setbacks, however, the Roosevelt Senators continued their vigorous campaign among Senators who may be on the platform committee. It was reported on high authority that Roosevelt himself is agreeable to a resubmission plank.

The New York Governor was reported by a close friend to have taken a position two years ago somewhat akin to the Republican prohibition remedy. He is against the Eighteenth Amendment, but believes that repeal should be accompanied by a prohibition against the saloon and possibly state sale of liquor.

Senatorial comment on Speaker Garner's pronouncement disclosed a belief that a majority of the Democratic delegates actually will favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. This view of Democrats was reinforced by Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio, who retired as chairman of the Republican National Committee. He flatly predicted that the Democratic convention would be for repeal.

WAGNER FOR REPEAL

While some of the anti-drys were said to have been won over to the idea of avoiding a declaration on prohibition beyond resubmission, others objected strenuously. Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York said:

"Personally, I think there ought to be a recommendation. I hope the convention will recommend repeal. Of course, a statement that repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment ought to be submitted would be free from ambiguity."

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, author of the Eighteenth Amendment and a Garner supporter, planned to lead the "bone dry" defensive at Chicago. He declared that he would oppose both resubmission and repeal.

Senator Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, indorsed the proposal to submit a repeal plank without a recommendation of the convention that the states ratify it.

Minnesota Bolters Threaten Roosevelt

ST. PAUL, June 22.—(AP.)—A surprise victory scored by Democratic "rumpers" in Monday's state primaries was shaped into a weapon today in an effort to prevent seating of Minnesota's Roosevelt-instructed delegation to the national convention next week.

John E. Regan, who won the party's nomination for Governor, asserted that the triumph of the "rumpers'" slate amounted to "repudiation" of the Roosevelt convention indorsement. He said "the repudiation reflected growing sentiment throughout the nation."

McNutt Nominated For Governorship

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—(AP.)—Two World War veterans will contest for Indiana's governorship in November, each on party platforms calling for submission of the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Paul V. McNutt, of Bloomington, a Democrat, and former national commander of the American Legion, nominated yesterday, will oppose Raymond S. Springer, Republican and first commander of the Indiana Department of the Legion.

Smith Demands Dry Law Repeal

SMITH STATEMENT

His statement follows:

"The Eighteenth Amendment should never have been put into the Constitution. It is unworkable. I attacked it from the time it was first proposed and prophesied its failure and stated that it would be proved to be the greatest curse ever put over on an unsuspecting people.

"I fought it when it was unpopular to take that side of the issue in many parts of my own state and in many other states of the Union, and when every weapon of narrow-minded intolerance was turned against me.

"I carried the banner when the army was small, the straggiers numerous and the opposition bitter. I was then and I am now for the unconditional repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The Volstead act should at once me amended by a scientifically correct definition that will permit the sale of beverages of reasonable alcoholic content. The people of the United States are entitled to this relief, which would divert the profits of the bootlegger into legitimate taxes."

RAPS DRY LEAGUE

Chatting informally then with newspapermen, Smith said the half of 1 per cent provision in the Volstead act was arbitrary and was put in there by the Anti-Saloon League.

He added that if a proposal for its repeal were not submitted to the resolutions committee he would submit one himself. He was questioned:

"Who is going to be the nominee?"

"The convention will decide."

"Who is your preference?"

"Alfred E. Smith."

"Who have you picked for your running mate?"

"I haven't thought that out yet."

Smith reiterated that talk about Roosevelt being nominated on the first ballot was "a little ballyhoo."

Smith said he did not believe the convention would abrogate the two-thirds nominating rule. Asked if he would support the nominee of the convention, he said it was not necessary to "talk about that at this time."

"Will you urge an economic plank?"

FOR CLEAR PLATFORM

Asked what the Democrats should do on the whole to assure success in November, Smith replied:

"Write an honest straightforward and clear platform and nominate me."

"How many ballots will that take?"

"That depends on how fast the delegates can see."

Smith said it depended entirely upon developments between now and the first day of the convention next Monday whether he would address the convention on any issue.

He said he was opposed to a cash bonus plank but that he did not care to state the reasons at this time.

"What about Speaker Garner's statement (urging prohibition repeal)?"

"The more the merrier."

Smith said he favored Jouett Shouse for permanent chairman and would take the floor if necessary in the fight to nominate him. He added, however, that he believed Shouse would be elected without a contest on the floor.

Asked about his part in the "Stop Roosevelt" movement, Smith said:

"There is nothing to that. I'm combating a stop-Smith movement that commenced one year and a half ago."

Meanwhile, leading the fight for the selection of Speaker Garner, William Gibbs McAdoo, who saw himself on the White House trail at New York in 1924 but found the vision a mirage, was expected to steam into Chicago during the day.

He opposes Roosevelt, and in this he goes along with Smith, who stood in his way in 1924. They are together now, but the Roosevelt friends doubt the pair can agree on any one candidate.

Even at this early stage the drift is strongly toward a party declaration on prohibition, which would go farther along the anti-prohibition road than the Republican plank.

The voice of the dry has been drowned, temporarily at least, by many calls for a direct Democratic expression on the issue, every statement hitherto being moist and some strongly anti-dry.

The only question seems to be whether the plank should call for resubmission of a repeal plank or a party commitment for repeal.

STATE TO BACK WALSH FOR CHAIRMAN

Guffey Predicts 60 Votes Will Go to Senator for Position at Convention

By MARK SHIELDS
Political Editor

CHICAGO, June 22.—Pennsylvania will give 60 votes to Senator Thomas J. Walsh for permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention and 66 votes for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as the presidential nominee, Joseph F. Guffey predicted when he arrived in Chicago today to represent the Roosevelt interests from Pennsylvania.

Guffey, former national committeeman, said the bulk of Pennsylvania delegates would go right down the line with the Roosevelt strategy and join in the movement to defeat Jouett Shouse, affiliated with the Smith-Raskob group, for permanent chairman.

Guffey's prediction of 66 votes for Roosevelt is a return to his earlier claims and an advance of six votes over the estimates he recently has been making. Roosevelt opponents contend the New York Governor will not get more than 45 votes, and that this number may be lessened by the fight on Shouse.

VAN DYKE ARRIVES

State Chairman Warren Van Dyke arrived with Guffey. Van Dyke tomorrow will represent Pennsylvania in preliminary meetings of the resolutions committee, but will give way to some one else Sunday when the delegation caucuses and elects a member of the committee. There are three delegates seeking the position.

Allegheny County Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence is to arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning. Lawrence is associated with Guffey and Van Dyke in the Roosevelt movement. Guffey declined to forecast how the six Allegheny County delegates from districts in which Smith received a larger vote than Roosevelt would stand on the first ballot.

Roosevelt Foes in State May Support Baker

HARRISBURG, June 22.—(AP.)—Rumors that Pennsylvania anti-Roosevelt forces would support Newton D. Baker for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention next week in Chicago were current today in political circles here.

Sedgwick Kistler, national committeeman and leader of the group opposing the nomination of the New York Governor, could not be reached for comment.

It had generally been believed before the Baker rumors cropped out that the anti-Roosevelt delegates would support former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

Meanwhile, the Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt factions were lining up for a battle royal at the Sunday night caucus in Chicago.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Edward Everett (Dolly) Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will go on the hustings this week in behalf of the President, her brother, and the G. O. P.

Following a long conference yesterday at the White House with Walter Brown, political secretary to the President, Mrs. Gann said she would tell about the prohibition plank, adding:

"Isn't it our platform? I will take it just as it is. It seems to me that it should please everybody."

MRS. MICHAEL RUSHACK . . . FATHER DIED AT HER WEDDING

Newlywed Mrs. Rushack, 19, the former Miss Julia Slivka, 723 Forward avenue, whose honeymoon plans have been cancelled by the preparations for the funeral of her father, Stephen, 47, who apparently mistook poison for wine at the happy wedding party.

WEDDING HOST DIES OF POISON

A poison which he drank in mistake for wine at the wedding celebration of his daughter today had caused the death of Stephen Slivka, 47, according to the morgue report.

Mr. Slivka

There were 500 guests at the party celebrating the wedding in the home at 723 Forward avenue, Greenfield. And when the wine supply ran low, Slivka went to the cellar to replenish, the report said. In the dim light he apparently mistook the bottles. Taken to Mercy Hospital, he died.

The bride, Julia, 21, and her husband, Michael Rushack, had planned to leave on their honeymoon this week. Instead, they will attend the funeral.

HOOVER URGES ARMS CUT

lems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all inter-connected. No other part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other."

The President paused significantly after enunciating this part of his statement, and then added:

"Based on these principles, I propose that the arms of the world should be reduced by nearly one-third."

Borah Approves Arms Cut Plan

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—President Hoover's proposal to the Geneva disarmament conference for a one-third cut in world armaments drew the immediate approval today of Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who only two days ago announced he would not support the President for re-election on the party platform.

Borah said the plan seemed "fair and sound" and expressed the hope it would bring a realization to the conference that failure to disarm would "bring an irreparable disaster."

France Spurns Hoover's Program, Britain Cool

GENEVA, June 22.—(AP.)—President Hoover's proposal for drastic cuts in the world's armaments brought definite refusal of acceptance from the French today and only lukewarm approval from the British.

After the plan for reducing arms by approximately one-third had been presented at a special meeting of the world disarmament conference, Joseph Paul-Bancour, the French delegate, asserted that it was absolutely unacceptable and sounded to them too much like an ultimatum. He added that France once more would raise the old question of security.

Sir John Simon, speaking for the British, said the plan would receive careful consideration, but that agreement was not to be achieved by any one-sided statement.

Mr. Hoover's proposal for further reduction of naval arms is inadequate in some respects, he said, particularly those which concern submarines.

The Germans hailed the Hoover suggestions with enthusiasm. The Italian delegates expressed hearty approval of the plan.

POLITICAL WORK CHARGED AT COUNTY COST

Hired as Laborer, Posted Placards for Armstrong, Witness Tells Probers

A former county employe listed as a laborer spent considerable time driving men around the county for the purpose of posting placards advocating the election of the late Joseph G. Armstrong as County Commissioner, the laborer is said to have revealed in an affidavit taken today in the office of County Investigator Leo Riordan.

Thomas Bonach, of 1307 Locust street, appeared in Riordan's office and made the affidavit. According to Riordan, Bonach said that he obtained 20 gallons of gasoline and six quarts of oil from a station at the end of the Liberty tubes by saying that he "was from headquarters."

GIVEN FREE GASOLINE

Bonach, according to the statement, worked for the county from August until October, 1931, during the campaign. He declared that on one occasion he went to the gasoline station and asked for five gallons of gasoline and was given 12 gallons. He was carried on the payroll as a laborer in Division No. 3 of the Road Maintenance Bureau. Bonach said he obtained the political posters at the Hotel Henry headquarters.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced today that the grand jury's investigation of the county government, as ordered by Judge Elder W. Marshall, would not begin before July 18—until the grand jury had ended its probe of wholesale purchase of tax receipts.

PROBERS SCAN RECORDS

Park said there would not be a duplication of the work already done by the County Solicitor's office.

The records seized on subpena by Park yesterday are believed to deal with the private purchase of great quantities of gasoline charged to the county.

Payroll records of No. 3 Road Division were in the hands of the investigators today, having been turned over by Daniel D. Houlahen, superintendent.

WILLARD BACKS MODIFICATION

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 22.—(INS.)—The name of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was added today to those who favor a modification of the prohibition law.

In an address before the University of Rochester alumni he declared that "before we can have an entirely satisfactory condition some modification must be made of our prohibition law and I am inclined to be sympathetic with that thought."

Attributing the increase in crime to prohibition, he added:

"It should be possible to so amend the law that not only would the saloon be forever abolished but the control of the liquor traffic so established as to remove the most serious objections which exist today, and that, in such a manner as to really promote temperance, and doubt very much if the existing law has done that."

Poll on Repeal Favored By Ohio Governor

COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—(AP.)—Gov. George White, Ohio's "favorite son" for the Democratic nomination for President, formally declared last night in favor of submission of an amendment to repeal federal prohibition and adoption by Congress of amendments to the Volstead Act legalizing the manufacture and sale of "beer of good quality."

The Governor's announcement of his position came in a letter to former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Cleveland, who will nominate the Ohio executive for president at the Chicago convention next week. It was in answer to Senator Pomerene's request for a statement of his views on national prohibition.

While Gov. White's announcement of his position on the Eighteenth Amendment is an affirmation in detail of a similar stand announced several months ago before a convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union here, his declaration in favor of modification of the Volstead law to permit manufacture and sale of "beer of good quality" was hailed with rejoicing by the liberals.

White said he "was opposed to enactment of the Volstead Act and congratulated President Wilson on his veto of the measure. He said:

"I believed then, as I do now, that some of its provisions are too drastic and render the law impossible of adequate enforcement."

TRIAL JUDGE'S TESTIMONY SUPPORTS BLEDSOE ALIBI

STORY OF BELL SHAKEN BY WITNESSES

Man, Girl Deny They Saw Ex-Sleuth, Stengoni With Bell on Night of Killing

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 22.—Four witnesses, including the trial judge, today aided the alibi defense of Robert C. Bledsoe, who with Cosmo Stengoni, is on trial for the racket killing of Constable Jack Donohoe three years ago.

With the consent of the District Attorney, Judge S. John Morrow supplied a date which the maid in his home could not remember. It concerned a visit of Bledsoe to the judge's home while the jurist was in Cleveland and corroborated Bledsoe's testimony.

AID FOR BLEDSOE

Adolph Priester and Helen Banish previously had testified that Bledsoe and Stengoni were not companions of Tony Bell, whom they identified, when Bell's car stopped theirs at Twin Oaks about 2 a. m. the night of the murder.

Priester testified that when the machine in which he and Helen Banish were riding was stopped by another car, Bell alighted from the other car and shouted:

"What are you doing here? You've been here long enough."

Two other cars approached and two other men alighted and walked toward Priester's car. Priester was sure neither of these men was Bledsoe or Stengoni. The woman passenger corroborated Priester's testimony.

District Attorney Wade K. Newell bitterly attacked the man's testimony, which brought two additional men, not yet named, into the plot.

THREATS CHARGED

Priester charged that Newell threatened him with a perjury prosecution unless he made a statement denying his original testimony of seeing Bell and the others, Bell with a gun in his hand. He claimed state police also threatened him. It developed that Priester had made three statements. He insisted that the story told today was authentic.

Mrs. Happy Guyeaux, from whose home Donohoe's funeral was held, today told how Bell knelt at the coffin of the murdered man and prayed. Bell last week testified he merely viewed the body.

When Mrs. Lilly Childs, maid at the home of Judge Morrow, could not remember the exact date in July, 1929, that the Judge was in Cleveland, Attorney Joseph Baer for the defense asked the Judge if he would kindly give the date. This he did, with the permission of the District Attorney.

The maid had testified that a man giving his name as Bledsoe had called at the Morrow home. This corroborated Bledsoe's testimony.

Judge Morrow leaned over in his chair, without being sworn, and said that he had gone to Cleveland on July 27.

DENIES KILLING

His face within a few inches of the muzzle of the death gun in the Donohoe murder case and with his eyes fixed on it, Bledsoe in the most dramatic moment of the trial, now in its third week, roared his innocence yesterday. He was asked:

"Didn't you pour lead into Donohoe's body with this very gun?"

He shouted:

"No!"

District Attorney Newell withdrew the automatic pistol, fished from the Monongahela River at Nemacolin Ferry by a magnet, from a box containing the bloody clothing of the victim.

He turned and quickly flashed it in the face of the accused man. As quickly as the question was put just as swiftly came the "no."

AIMEE'S MATE FIERY WOOER, NURSE SAYS

Woman Suing Evangelist's Husband Faces Grilling on Story of Love Scenes

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, who pictured the husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton as a fiery wooer, faced cross-examination today on the story of impassioned love scenes she told yesterday from the witness stand.

Before his marriage to the evangelist, the 30-year-old nurse testified in her $200,000 breach of promise suit, David Hutton, choir singer in his wife's Four Square Gospel Church, told her marriage was a man-made institution that could be ignored at times. She told the jury:

"He made violent love to me. 'You must be a wife to me to prove your love,' he insisted. He held me so tightly. He smothered me with kisses."

COLLAPSES ON STAND

In the midst of her story the nurse fell from the witness stand in a faint. She continued her story of her relations with the singer only with the aid of smelling salts.

So intimate were the scenes she described, the court room was cleared of all who did not have an immediate interest in the case. While she told of his love, Miss St. Pierre gazed steadily at Hutton. He stared back fixedly, occasionally swallowing hard.

He sang love songs to her, the nurse testified, swore he could not live without her, called her tender names, promised to "build a lovely little nest," and repeatedly asked her to marry him. She accepted, she continued, and a wedding date was tentatively fixed for March, 1931. The suit was not filed, however, until after Hutton's marriage to Mrs. McPherson.

AIMEE IN SANITARIUM

Meanwhile, unaware that the trial had even begun, Mrs. Hutton was confined to a sanitarium. She is suffering from a nervous breakdown and a strange tropical illness contracted on her recent tour of Central America with her husband.

Reporters were allowed to talk to Mrs. Hutton yesterday through the screen of her secluded room on the condition they would not discuss the trial. The evangelist has been told the trial was postponed so she would be free from any excitement the testimony might cause.

ROUTS BARKER GRAVE ROBBERS

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—A band of ghouls apparently intent upon robbing the grave of George (Red) Barker, labor racketeer and public enemy recently slain by machine gunners, engaged in a pistol battle with the caretaker of Mt. Carmel Cemetery early today. The ghouls escaped, but not until they had shot several holes in the caretaker's automobile, stopping pursuit.

The police advanced the theory that the intruders were seeking valuable papers or jewelry buried with the gangster. They pointed out that an automobile truck in which the men escaped could easily have been used to carry away Barker's casket.

The number of men in the band was not learned. Joseph Sobol, 50, the caretaker, came upon them shortly after midnight. They were bending over Barker's grave. When Sobol asked them what they were doing they answered him with half a dozen shots.

and Flick, charged with conspiracy and embracery. J. Claire Ross, defense counsel, asked the court to instruct the jury to acquit Flick, on the ground no evidence had been produced to show he had actually approached prospective jurors in the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and his deposed Director of Supplies, Betram L. Succop.

MOVE AMAZES COURT

Negley, to the amazement of the courtroom, countered with a motion to nolle prose the case against Flick, which was granted.

Witnesses had testified McBride made offers of $300 to $500. Judge Watson called him to the bar of the court, following his plea of nolle contender to a charge of embracery, and questioned him. McBride informed the court:

"Flick told me he thought there would be some money in it."

Judge Watson said:

"This statement you signed says that Flick received a proposition from someone in Pittsburgh and from a lawyer, in which it was stated there would be some money in it."

McBride replied:

"I am not sure if he said anything about a lawyer."

Judge Watson ordered McBride committed to jail for the present without bail, because of admissions that he approached prospective jurors. The result of yesterday's termination of the McBride-Flick case caused District Attorney Negley to remark today:

"As for Flick, it was just like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Flick came to my office the other day and begged me to turn him loose. He informed me that R. J. Cunningham, Pittsburgh contractor, was the only 'higher up' he knew and that he had visited him at Bakerstown. Roy C. Eakin, who also plead nolle contender to embracery, and Flick are next door neighbors. Owing to yesterday's turn of events we hope to get to the bottom of the whole affair."

SENTENCES SATURDAY

As the jury "fix" case stands now, five will be called for sentence before Judge Watson next Saturday. These include Howard F. Gross, stationary engineer of the East Liberty Police Station, found guilty of embracery who, it was testified yesterday, visited McBride several times; Mrs. May Scott, wife of a Pittsburgh policeman; her brother, Bert Dougherty, Butler, and W. H. Cook, Hilliard, coal miner, and Eakin.

Teamsters Fight Proposal to Bar Horses in Tubes

A delegation of teamsters has asked County Commissioners not to bar horse-drawn vehicles from the Liberty tubes. Commissioners promised to give the matter further consideration.

Jacob Minsinger, spokesman for the teamsters, said:

"They drove us off the boulevard and we don't want to be driven out of the tunnels. There's no delay inside the tubes, it's at the approaches."

It had been proposed by commissioners to bar horses from the tubes during rush hours. Complaints have been received that traffic is unable to get around a horse drawn vehicle when lanes are congested.

CURTIS DENIES LINDY HOAX

NORFOLK, Va., June 22.—(AP.)—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk man awaiting trial at Flemington, N. J., on a charge of obstructing justice in the search for the kidnapers and murderers of the Lindbergh baby, today issued a statement through his attorneys repudiating an alleged confession he previously had made to New Jersey police.

In his statement Curtis, who is to go on trial next Monday, charged he was tricked into making the supposed confession in which he said his "negotiations" for the return of the Lindbergh baby had been products of his imagination and were not founded on fact.

Referring to his first report to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that he was in contact with the kidnapers and working for the baby's return, he said:

"Everything I said in the first place was true."

He referred to his work on the case early in March, long before it was learned the baby had been killed.

POLL TAX PROBE TURNS TO AUDIT

Extension of the grand jury investigation, delving into the wholesale purchase of poll tax receipts, to include probing of various phases of information being revealed by the county audit, may begin any day.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, while admitting that a court order expanding the scope of the probe, had been asked by him and granted by Presiding Judge Elder W. Marshall, was silent regarding details.

It was the general belief about the courthouse that Park was getting important witnesses served with subpenas before they can suddenly decamp for summer vacations. That certain records were seized on a grand jury subpena, also became known.

The grand jury today was hearing witnesses from the Fourth Ward, in the tax receipt probe. In this ward Howard Neeley, Republican ward chairman, was said to have purchased some 7,000 receipts before the September primary. About 100 witnesses were testifying today. About as many Third Ward witnesses testified yesterday.

Vickerman Reveals 37,000-Vote Error

Robert S. Gawthrop, running for judge of Superior Court against a field including Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, was credited with 37,000 fewer votes than he should have received, J. W. Vickerman, of the Bureau of Elections, has informed County Commissioners.

Gawthrop's correct total of 136,480 has been ordered certified to the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The error was made by an adding machine operator in the Returning Board, Vickerman said. It did not affect the election result as Stadtfeld led Gawthrop by more than 90,000.

CATHOLICS OPEN EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Last of U. S. Groups Due To Join Dublin Pilgrims For Six-Day Celebration

By THOMAS C. WATSON

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

DUBLIN, June, 22.—With the colorful, fervent ceremonies preliminary to the thirty-first Eucharistic Congress concluded, today in Dublin's pro-cathedral began the six days of masses, processions and meetings in which the 1,000,000 devout pilgrims gathered for the congress proper will confirm the doctrine of the Real Presence.

Garbed in his crimson robes of office, Cardinal Lauri, papal legate, held court yesterday in the gardens of Blackrock College in honor of the feast of St. Aloysius, patron of youth.

It was a moving sight when the 20,000 invited guests thronged over the grounds and knelt to receive the legate's blessing, bestowed from a balcony of the college.

CARDINAL HONORED

The concluding devotions of the triduum, three-day service for success of the congress, were held in Dublin's churches last night. Later there was a state reception for Cardinal Lauri in St. Patrick's Hall of Dublin Castle.

President De Valera presided at the function, but a place of honor was accorded former President Cosgrave and leaders of the opposition. Every phase of Dublin life was represented. Especially honored were the widows and mothers of those who died for Ireland's liberty.

A notable absentee was the British Governor-General MacNiel, who, according to a government spokesman, was not invited because "it would be inappropriate to ask a representative of a Protestant monarch to a purely Roman Catholic function."

CARDINAL HAYES DUE

Dublin is now at the height of its festivities. From the extents of the earth, high church dignitaries, distinguished laity and more humble pilgrims are still pouring in. The liners Lapland and De Grasse were to bring the final American contingents today.

Cardinal Hayes, of New York, is aboard the Lapland. Dublin is preparing a welcome second only to that accorded the papal legate when the New York prelate sets foot on the native soil of his parents. He will be the guest of the American legation.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure now covers most of the interior of the country. Beginning in Manitoba, it extends southward over the plains states, thence eastward to the Atlantic coast. Low pressure areas are centered over Quebec, the West Gulf, Southern Alberta and the Far Southwest. The weather is clear this morning over much the greater portion of the country. Showers occurred yesterday or last night in Pennsylvania and Eastern West Virginia at scattered places in the southern states and north of the Great Lakes. Temperature changes were slight, but towards rising generally.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary generally, in some places rising a little and in others falling. During the last 24 hours .80 inch of rain fell at Warren and .31 inch at Punxsutawney. Other places reporting lighter amounts were Franklin, Freeport, Johnstown, Confluence, West Newton, Philippi and Charleroi. Stage at Franklin is 1.9 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.4; Pittsburgh 10.5; Dam No. 4, 8.4; Dam No. 6, 7.4; Dam No. 10, 8.4, and Dam No. 12, 7.4. The dams are up.

Pittsburgh Academy Head Will Retire

James F. Grady today announced his resignation as president of the Pittsburgh Academy, effective June 30. He is retiring temporarily from the teaching field, Grady said, to win his doctor's degree at Columbia University.

Before coming to Pittsburgh four years ago, Grady was a teacher and newspaper man in Boston.

Injured Boy Afraid Of Missing Supper

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—It took 31 minutes for a rescue squad to free 17-year-old Jim Perley, newspaper delivery boy, as he hung by a crushed arm caught between an elevator and a jammed door, but all he said was:

"Hurry up, or I'll miss supper."

The boy was caught between the inner and outer doors of an automatic elevator and he was dragged swinging to the fourth floor before the car jammed. They got him loose with ropes and crowbars at last, without ever hearing a moan. At a hospital doctors said his arm probably will be saved.

Barthelmess Wins Award of $62,672

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—A judgment for $61,672.91 was awarded Richard Barthelmess, screen star, by a jury in Superior Court last night against Dallas S. Squire, his college chum, and the latter's broker, William Cavalier & Co.

The judgment resulted from a suit brought by the actor to recover the value of securities Squire allegedly pledged to cover stock market purchases on margin. Squire claimed Barthelmess had given him permission to use the securities, but this the actor denied.

Pittsburgher Saves 2 Boys From Canal

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Diving into Black Rock Canal, Joseph Leone, of Pittsburgh, saved two boys from drowning yesterday.

Leon Rockwell, 11, and Joseph Zaworski, 17, were swimming in the canal. Zaworski went to the aid of Rockwell when the latter sank, but was pulled beneath the surface helpless. Leone, visiting here, leaped to the rescue, dragging Zaworski ashore and then returning to save Rockwell.

Man Ends Own Life After Slaying Agent

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Believed crazed by fear of eviction because of financial difficulties, David Edell, 46, owner of a Loop restaurant, shot and killed U. G. Hinman, 55, manager of his building, and then committed suicide yesterday in Hinman's eighth-floor office.

Bandits Get $50,000 Worth of Platinum

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—Police hunted today for a quartet of armed bandits who escaped with $50,000 worth of bottled platinum and gold flakes from the downtown office of Baker & Co., after trussing up four employes, one a girl.

Second Man Held In Stamp Robbery

Albert Allen, 26, Negro, was held for court today by the United States Commissioner on a charge of robbing a postoffice sub-station in the St. Clair Pharmacy, 901 St. Clair street, of 700 stamps, April 22. Allen was arrested in Youngstown, O., last week. Louis Tames, Negro, co-defendant with Allen, was held for court on the same charge a few days after the robbery was committed.

The Problem

THE Welfare Fund will start the November campaign with a half million dollar debt, due to increasing demands.

Miss Spang's Body Arrives For Burial Here

The body of Miss Rosalie Spang, 87, who died in France, April 13, leaving more than $1,000,000 to nieces and valuable paintings to the Carnegie Institute, has arrived in Pittsburgh, and following funeral services Friday afternoon will be interred in the Allegheny Cemetery.

Miss Spang will be laid to rest beside an urn containing the heart of her brother, Norman, who died in France in 1922.

Coincident with the arrival of Miss Spang's remains, it was learned that art treasures in her home at Nice have been turned over to shippers and they will arrive in Pittsburgh shortly. The value of her estate in France is not known.

The Rev. W. F. Bayle, general missionary of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Episcopal Church, will conduct funeral services Friday at 3 p. m. at Samson's funeral home in Neville street.

Winton, First Automobile Manufacturer, Dies

CLEVELAND, June 22.—(AP.)—One of the most famous men of the automotive industry, Alexander Winton, Sr., who was generally known as the first commercial manufacturer of an automobile, died at his home here last night at the age of 72.

Long before the world ever dreamed the part automobiles were to play in modern life, Winton was building cars in a little Cleveland factory, and his first automobile was running on the streets of this city as early as 1895.

By 1903, while the infant industry was still generally confined to "one-lungers" and "two-lungers," according to the number of cylinders, Mr. Winton had built an eight-cylinder racing car, which he entered and drove that year in the James Gordon Bennett Cup race in Ireland.

In those days an automobile still looked like a demoniacal monster to many people, and Winton lost the race, he said later, because someone put candles in the gasoline tank to "keep away the devils."

Mr. Winton accumulated a large fortune in succeeding years, much of which he spent in wide and successful experiments for improvements. For many years his Cleveland factory manufactured automobiles, but suspended this business in 1924.

PINCHOT URGES BOROUGHS CUT PUBLIC DEBT

Warns State League of Danger From Borrowings; 'Cash and Carry' Plan Need

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—In a message read to the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs today, Gov. Pinchot urged consideration of legislation to decrease local taxation and revise the public service company laws.

The statement was read by John M. Walker, the Governor's counsel in public utility legislation.

BILLION IN DEBT

The Governor asserted that the per capita bonded indebtedness for local government in 1930 was more than $1,000,000,000. To carry this indebtedness at 4 per cent interest and refund it in a 20-year period, he estimated would require a per capita tax of $9 per year. He wrote:

"I urge you to consider legislation that will permit municipalities to borrow funds for worthy purposes, but prevent unthinking borough councils and school districts from running wild on the question of issuing bonds. We cannot go on forever borrowing from Peter to pay Paul. We must put all political subdivisions on the road to a 'cash and carry' government. And we must relieve the local taxes on real estate."

PUBLIC AROUSED

Referring to effective regulation of public utilities, he said the public gained "nothing much but experience" in the 1931 public utility fight. He continued:

"The public mind has changed quite a bit since the close of the regular session (of the Legislature) of 1931. Mr. Gadsden, who is president of the Philadelphia Electric Company, in a recent speech, practically admitted most of the accusations made against the public utility industry. The tremendous Insull investigating company, now in the hands of receivers, conclusively proved that holding companies, issuing watered stock, are a menace to the public and must be very carefully and vigorously regulated.

UTILITIES ABOUT FACE

"The National Electric Light Association, at its convention in June, 1932, elected a new set of officers and adopted a new constitution in an attempt to cultivate the good will of the people. There is a tendency on the part of the utilities to co-operate with critics to bring common sense public utility regulation. I am perfectly willing to meet them half way.

"I have repeatedly said that what I am after is a square deal for the companies, and a square deal for the investing public. I am convinced that we ought to give Pennsylvania the finest public utility code in the United States. I invite your co-operation in achieving that victory."

HUNT BANDITS IN SWAMPS

MONROE, La., June 22.—(AP.)—Two bank bandits were hunted through the Bayou swamps, southwest of here, today after a running gun battle in which a deputy sheriff was killed, four possemen wounded and a young woman companion of the robbers shot down and captured.

The bandits robbed the Franklin State Bank and Trust Company branch at Baskin yesterday and escaped with more than $1,000 only to get bogged down in Bayou mud. Officers caught up with the two as they continued their flight on foot.

The deputy sheriff, the first to engage with the robbers, was shot dead by a bullet through the chest. A few moments later the woman companion of the bandits was dropped with a bullet in the hip. The men abandoned her and retreated into the swamp. Four of the posse received flesh wounds.

The woman refused to identify herself or her companions.

700 Taking Test; No Job in Sight

Sixteen young women and six men today were taking a civil service examination for stenographer in the Postoffice Building. Miss Emily Coulson, secretary of the Civil Service Board of Examiners, had charge of the examination. So far, 180 of the 700 applicants have been given the examination, but no results have been announced. There are no jobs available, but the board is preparing a list of applicants.

Payment of Debts Halted by Austria

VIENNA, June 22.—(INS.)—The Austrian government has put into effect what amounts to a virtual transfer moratorium on her foreign debts, it was learned by International News Service today.

The government, it was understood, instructed the Austrian National Bank to discontinue allotment of foreign currency for the payment of foreign debts.

BRIDGE EXPERT WAR LOOMS

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—War clouds grew black in the contract bridge country today, gathering quickly after announcement of a peace plan.

Waldermar Von Zedtwitz, president of the American Bridge League, issued a statement criticising the plan of Ely Culbertson, Bridge Headquarters and Milton C. Work to have the newly formed United States Bridge Association supervise the game and conduct national championships.

Von Zedtwitz set forth that his organization already is the national representative body. He characterized the aim of standardization of bidding sought by the Culbertson and "official" groups as dubious.

Baker, Meyer, Noyes Get Yale Degrees

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 22.—(AP.)—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press, headed a group of 10 distinguished men who received honorary degrees today at Yale's two hundred and thirty-first commencement exercises.

ADMITS GUILT IN LOAN THEFT

Charles Donkin, 55, of New York, placed on trial yesterday, today changed his plea to guilty of accessory to embezzling $96,000 from the Modern Building and Loan Association and also to blackmail, before Visiting Judge Charles D. Copeland in Criminal Court.

Howard Wandless, 50, of Avalon, former secretary of the loan association, who had previously pleaded guilty to embezzlement, took the stand for the commonwealth and testified he and Donkin had lost money in a real estate deal 10 years ago, that he had tried to reimburse Donkin with funds of the association, and that later Donkin extorted a total of $96,000 from him on threats of sending him to jail.

Sentence on both Donkin and Wandless was held over until this afternoon.

Girl Starling Fire With Oil Burned

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 22.—(INS.)—Alexandria Lewis, 19, of Lincoln Hill, near here, today was in Washington Hospital in a critical condition the result of burns suffered when the oil she was using to start a fire exploded and ignited her clothing.

CHILD TORTURE JAILS MOTHER

CHICAGO, June 22.—(INS.)—Charged with having seared her stepson's tongue with a heated knife and with other cruelties to her stepchildren, Mrs. Jennie Pacer, 40, today was sent to jail for one year.

The stories of Clara Pacer, 12, and her 11-year-old brother, Edward, were supplemented in court by the evidence of a Humane Society investigator.

The girl told the Judge that her stepmother, in a fit of anger, had knocked her tooth out with a blow of her fist.

Action against Mrs. Pacer was instituted after school teachers reported discovering welts on the backs of the children. In court Edward and Clara said their stepmother had often beaten them across their backs with a blacksnake whip.

The children also testified that they were forced to buy and sell liquor and were sent into the streets to steal.

MAN CONVICTED IN DEATH PLOT

Robert Swain, 69, of 1308 Juniata street, was found guilty of solicitation to commit murder by a jury in Criminal Court today before Visiting Judge J. H. McCann. Sentence was postponed pending a motion for a new trial or a move to examine Swain mentally.

Edith Laxton, of 1332 West North avenue, testified Swain offered her $50 to throw acid on Detective Sergt. John Rhall, whom Swain's son, Walter, 18, and Joseph Laxton, were alleged to have held up. Walter Swain escaped, while Laxton is serving 10 to 20 years. Oliver Bashor, brother of Mrs. Laxton, testified Swain had offered him a roll of bills to shoot Rhall.

2 DRYS FREED IN SLAYING

DALLAS, Tex., June 22.—(AP.)—Prohibition Agents L. C. Smith and N. D. Heaton were free today of legal responsibility for the slaying of F. M. McGlothlin, country storekeeper, April 8. United States District Judge William H. Atwell ordered an instructed verdict in their favor late yesterday.

On motion of the prosecution all other charges against the agents were dismissed, as well as those against Buddy Hoard, an informer. McGlothlin was killed and his wife wounded when the agents arranged a rendezvous with a suspected bootlegger at his store. The McGlothlins thought the agents were robbers.

Judge Atwell said the agents had a clear case of self-defense. The McGlothlins were shot after the wife seized a pistol and the husband a shotgun.

The three defendants had been indicted by the Dallas County grand jury, but the cases were transferred to Federal Court. The agents were suspended after the indictments.

WRECK PROBED BY U. S. BOARD

The Interstate Commerce Commission investigation to determine the cause of the deaths of an engineer and his firemen yesterday when the boiler of the locomotive attached to the Capitol Limited blew up near Allison Park Station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was under way today. Two government investigators and railroad officials were inspecting the wreckage and later were to examine valves and other parts of the wrecked engine. The inquest, according to acting Coroner James L. Davidson, will be held after this investigation is completed.

Girl Hit by Truck Goes to Hospital

Nancy Meyers, 10, of 2211 Beechwood boulevard, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck at Highland and Center avenues, yesterday. Robert Bain, 18, of 123 Mill street, Coraopolis, the driver, told police the child ran into the path of the truck.

Tony Marrolla, 7, of 147 Auburn street, suffered bruises when struck by an automobile near his home yesterday. He was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Kept From Ride, Man 'Eggs' Family Auto

Angered because the protests of his wife and son kept him from going for a ride in the family automobile, Michael Michaliszyn, 46, of 303 Chestnut street, sent a barrage of eggs at the car from a window of his home last night, according to police.

Michael, police said, picked up two cartons of eggs and, one by one, threw them at the automobile. His wife caused his arrest on a disorderly conduct charge.

Man at Work Hurt In Engine Explosion

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—When the valve head blew off a steam engine, near where he was working, Fred Youngblood, 29, South Greensburg, suffered a fractured leg.

All Golfers Pay On Park Links, Riis Says

The county collects the regular fees from all golfers who use the park courses, Director of Parks Paul B. Riis told County Commissioners, yesterday, in answer to a question by Chairman Charles C. McGovern, who asked:

"Is any free golf being played?"

Riis replied:

"Not to my knowledge. Occasionally the ranger brings in someone who tries it."

Riis revealed that the wells in North Park have contained water unfit to drink, and that the handles have been taken from the pumps to prevent its use.

WARN AUTOISTS OF TRAPS

Autoists were warned against traffic law violations in Aspinwall, Springdale, Arnold and on Freeport road between Aspinwall and Springdale today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Borough police and State Highway Patrol officers are reported waging a campaign against minor technical violations, the legal department announced. The club reported it has requested the highway police to investigate a charge that 100 motorists were arrested in one day at Springdale. It was charged they were fined $13.50 each and denied opportunity to obtain legal advice.

INSURANCE MEN ELECT HOLMES

Election of Jay M. Holmes, manager of the Travelers Life Insurance Company, as president of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters Association, was announced at a dinner of the association in Kaufmann's last night. R. S. Koehler, Jr., of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, and W. Rankin Furey, general agent of the Berkshire Life Insurance Company, were elected vice presidents. T. W. Pomeroy, of the New England Mutual Life, was re-elected treasurer.

New members of the board of directors are Ray H. Finger, of the Sun Life of Canada; James A. Quinn, of Reliance Life, and Frank C. Wigginton, general agent of the State Mutual. Robert N. Waddell, retiring president, and F. W. Ries, Jr., manager of Canada Life, were re-elected to the board.

The President's Cup, awarded annually for outstanding co-operation with the association in advancing ethics and principles of life insurance, was presented the Berkshire Agency, and accepted by William M. Furey, associate general agent. Stanley B. Miller, of the Equitable Life Insurance Company of New York, was the principal speaker.

RATE CUT URGED ON STATE, CITY

A plea to Gov. Pinchot and Mayor Kline to use their offices to force a reduction in electric rates in Pittsburgh was contained in letters sent to the two executives today by Henry Ellenbogen, attorney.

He cited the increase of 3 per cent government tax which will be shown on electric bills, and recalled that five months ago, impressed by the response of the people to the campaign of the Fair Rate Association, the Duquesne Light Company publically admitted its charges were excessive and offered a reduction. In each of the letters he said in part:

"Every month means the continued collection of excessive and illegal charges and the unjust enrichment of the Duquesne Light Company at the expense of the struggling population of the City of Pittsburgh. Instead of substantial decrease in the charges for electricity we now face a three per cent increase."

2 Girls, Men Jailed In Holdup Inquiry

Two men and two girls arrested by Mt. Lebanon police in connection with barbecue holdups, were in County Jail today waiting arraignment for violating the firearms act. The informations were filed before Alderman Thomas M. Geary by county detectives.

The prisoners are Hazel Dowler, 19, and her sister, Opal, 17, of Washington Courthouse, O., and Charles McCoy, 25, and James McFeeley, 24, of Bridgeville. Attempts will be made to link the two men with holdups in Cambridge, O. Columbus and Washington County.

Ex-Kleagle of Klan Faces Sanity Test

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Edward Young Clarke, of Atlanta, Ga., former kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan, submitted to observation as to his mental condition today in the Psychopathic Hospital, to which he was committed last night by a court order.

Esskaye, Inc., founded by Clarke to "bring back prosperity" at $100 a membership and disbanded last night, brought about Clarke's confinement. Dr. Francis J. Gerty, superintendent of the hospital, said Clarke "appears to be suffering from paranoia, illusions of grandeur."

TWO TEAMS OF COLLEGE STUDENTS SELLING MAGAZINES TO COMMISSIONER MANSFIELD

STUDENTS OPEN TUITION DRIVE

A campaign was being conducted here today by two teams of college students earning tuition expenses under the Hearst Scholarship Plan.

The teams, with J. Neaman and M. Chatham as captains, are conductins a campaign under sponsorship of the publishers of Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, Harpers Bazaar and Town and Country. E. Fredland, a junior at the University of Pittsburgh, said:

"It means an education for us. We are ambitious and want college training. Money is needed, so we give up our summer vacations and work hard for 11 weeks to obtain generous commissions and a bonus.

"There is no such thing as easy money as far as we are concerned. Sometimes it isn't fun selling magazines, even when they are as good as those we represent."

O'MALLEY PAYS COURT COSTS

Appearing with his attorney, Edward Coll, in the office of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, Pat O'Malley, Republican chairman of the Second Ward, today paid $249 in court costs.

In February O'Malley and James Lardo, William Gallagher and Michael McMackin were found not guilty of conspiracy to cause registration on false receipts but the court costs were placed on the defendants. The total amount of the costs was $579.

In paying the portion of the costs, O'Malley presented papers to the sheriff, bearing the list of persons who had either testified or called during the trial, waiving their payment. Among the long list of names that waived the $330.20 were several city detectives.

Widow Wins Suit On $57,000 Policy

SCRANTON, Pa., June 22.—(INS.)—A verdict of $57,768 in favor of Mrs. Flo Skinner, of Lewistown, in her suit against the New York Life Insurance Company was returned in United States Court here today.

Mrs. Skinner sued the insurance company to collect on a policy held by her husband, Orville Skinner. The company refused payment, contending he committed suicide. The plaintiff claimed her husband had been murdered.

G. C. Kimball Takes Illinois Steel Post

George Cook Kimball, of 1046 Beechwood boulevard, vice president of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, has been elected vice president of the Illinois Steel Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, it was announced today. Kimball succeeds George G. Throp, who has ben elected president of the Illinois concern to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Eugene J. Buffington.

Lightning Kills 2 Near Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 22.—Seeking shelter under a tree during an electrical storm last night at Ben's Creek, John Lesko, 21, and Andrew Fetchik, 37, both of Ben's Creek, were killed by lightning last evening. Lightning struck a tool house of the Barnes No. 14 mine at Bakerton and fire destroyed the building. Heavy rains washed out crops of farms and did heavy damage to fruit.

MOTHER IN ROW, AWARDED CHILD

A fight in a North Side street over the custody of a 4-year-old child resulted in Mrs. Edna Werner, 28, of 34 Wabash avenue, a former vaudeville actress, being arraigned in Morals Court today with her mother, Mrs. Alice Dooley, of 1201 Reddour street, and her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louise Andre, of 232 Lenhart street.

Mrs. Werner and her mother went to the Andre home to see the child and, it was testified, Mrs. Werner ran into the street with the baby in her arms. Mr. and Mrs. Andre sought to stop her and the fight resulted. The four were charged with disorderly conduct but were discharged. The child was given to the mother and the case turned over to social workers.

Man Hurt as Miners Stone Automobiles

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 22.—(AP.)—A crowd of 600 alleged strikers stoned two automobiles, injuring one man, when they took control of three highways at the Provident mine near here today.

Sheriff Howard Duff informed National Guard officers that the situation was beyond his control and said he would ask Gov. George White for troops.

NEEDY CHINESE IN CITY SHUN PUBLIC AID

Race Suffering in Economic Crisis, but Scorns Appeal, Welfare Workers Reveal

Not a single Chinese family has asked for help from the Family Welfare Association of Allegheny County, according to Miss Eleanor Hanson, director of the association, in an interview today. This may not mean, continued Miss Hanson, that there are no needy Chinese families, but because the Chinese seldom "tells much," the association workers are unable to find out whether he is in need.

Miss Mary Nolin, principal of the Hancock school, voiced the same opinion, saying:

"There has been no evidence that any of our 15 Chinese pupils are in need of help. They seem to have no trouble in paying their car fares and other expenses."

That there are needy Chinese families is the opinion of M. K. Wong, principal of the Chinese school in Chinatown, although, he said, most of them are being cared for by friends or by relatives.

Principal Wong said:

"The depression has been very severe on our people here. However, it is characteristic of them not to ask for help from the charitable organizations, and as long as they have friends and relatives to depend on I believe they will not have to ask for assistance elsewhere."

Wong also revealed the fact that several Chinese stores here have had to close, and it has become necessary for him to admit some students whose parents cannot afford to pay the tuitions.

Officers Elected At Geneva College

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 22.—At the annual meeting of the board of corporators of Geneve College, the Rev. Dr. F. M. Wilson, of Philadelphia, was re-elected president. Other officers elected were: Dr. E. A. Crooks, New Castle, vice president; the Rev. A. A. Wylie, Oakdale, Ill., secretary, and James S. Tibby, Pittsburgh, treasurer.

Ammonia Leak Brings Firemen

A leak in an ammonia tank in the basement of the Park Building, at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, today brought firemen to the scene. The fumes did not affect tenants, and F. J. Fitch, superintendent of the building, said the leak was shut off before the firemen arrived.

White Star Gas Ranges

Everything you could think of in the way of mechanical improvement has been incorporated in this White Star Range—which is selling at exactly half its former price.

Perfect baking will result from the insulated and ventilated oven, equipped with radio dial Heet Control.

Broiling is as simple as frying with the Rol-Drop broiler that rolls into view.

The whole stove is easily cleaned because removable grates make every part of the burner box accessible, and the manifold is concealed.

This model is available in plain or marbleized finishes.

Mary Ziegler will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mary Louise Dicken and Katherine Stewart will be bridesmaids.

Samuel S. Scott will be best man, and Porter Sawyer Kier will be an usher, and so will be Robert Pratt.

The Clark Millers, of Park Mansions, have taken Wunnahunny Farm in the Fox Chapel district for the summer, which is nowadays vying with Sewickley with the social set.

Costume Party

At a hunting lodge in Butler, Katherine E. Stewart, of Butler, one of the bridesmaids, entertained last night with a Gay Nineties costume party for the bridal party.

Tomorrow night there'll be dancing at the Willows. The wedding will take place in the evening in the Ziegler home, with members of the two families and a few intimate friends attending.

Bridal Affair

The John McKelvys and Laura Evans will entertain with a tea in Fox Chapel Golf Club Sunday afternoon for Frances Reed and James C. McKay, whose wedding will be an event of Monday. Sunday night Virginia Drake will give a dinner in the Fox Chapel Club.

Glenwood Girl, Belle Vernon Man Wed

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dashiell, of Ashton avenue, have just announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Katharine Polk Dashiell, to Cyril Herbert Roberts, of Belle Vernon, son of Mrs. S. H. Roberts, which took place on April 30.

The bride is a graduate of Pennsylvania College for Women and the bridegroom of Penn State. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts leave today on an eastern trip after which they will reside in Belle Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Holland, of Oakwood road, Crafton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Holland, to Dr. Lawrence R. Eckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Eckert, also of Crafton, which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock last night in the First United Presbyterian Church of Crafton. The church was decorated with spring flowers and ferns.

Holland Wedding

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin, having long, close-fitting sleeves, and a full court train. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of tulle caught with clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her attendants were Miss Charlotte Eckert, who wore pink net over blue crepe, with a pink crepe jacket, and carried pink roses and blue delphinium, and her sister, Miss Wilma Eckert, who wore yellow net over pink crepe with a yellow crepe jacket, and carried pink roses and yellow snapdragons.

William H. Eckert was his brother's best man, and ushers were Andrew D. Robb, Jr., Francis A. Egan, Robert L. Stevenson, J. Philip Mahan, Jr., William T. Troop, Jr., and Carl N. Hazelwood.

After a wedding trip through 000, was a conference with Gov. ada, Dr. and Mrs. Eckert will reside in Dormont.

WOMEN GIVE SALMAGUNDI BREAKFAST

MISS MARY LANG MISS DOROTHY CAREY MISS MARGUERITE NEALON

Guests at G. O. P. Affair Initiated Into Order of Elephants and Play 'Silent' Bridge

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

They called it a salmagundi breakfast—the affair that the board of the Western Pennsylvania Republican Woman's Club had yesterday. But that doesn't begin to describe it. The president, Mrs. Archibald Weaver Powell, of Hoodridge avenue, was hostess. Also she was Mme. Worthy Kevnoter, who, assisted by Mme. Customary Caucus (Mrs. Lee Bovee), and Mme. Rusty Resolution (Mrs. John S. Holliday), put the guests through a ridiculously funny initiation ceremony into the Order of the Elephants.

After the women had pledged themselves to be, among other things, "as assinine as anybody else," the boxed breakfasts which they had brought, were raffled. Then in the afternoon there was an intelligence test that must have tested the intelligence of its compiler, and there were all sorts of odd games, such as bridge in which the players were required to refrain entirely from speech, designating their plays by signs. Instead of giving prizes to the winners, the losers were fined. An additional feature of the afternoon's entertainment were numerological readings by Mrs. Chester B. Story.

The club has suspended activities for the summer, but is planning a large gathering for the fall, the initial step towards making Pittsburgh a central meeting place for the four-state Federation of Republican Clubs.

Attend Biennial

Mrs. W. M. Parrish, president of the Pittsburgh branch of the American Association of University Women, and Mrs. W. B. Jones, chairman of the education committee, left Sunday for a motor trip to Burlington, Vt., to be present at the biennial conference of the North Atlantic section of the national association opening today.

The conference, which will continue until Saturday, has as its subject the "Place of the University Woman in the Community." Speakers of national prominence are on the program, including Dorothy Canfield Fisher, novelist and educator; Mrs. F. G. Atkinson, first vice president of the national A. A. U. W.; Miss Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner for the State of New York, and Dr. Olive Hamilton, of Harvard Medical School.

An important mission undertaken on the way to Vermont by Mrs. Parrish and Mrs. Jones, who have been asked, as representatives of six women's organizations comprising a membership of 75,000, was in conference with Gov. Pinchot on the need of suitable housing conditions for the delinquent children of Allegheny County.

Outdoor Party

Somewhat unusual features will mark "ye old colonial partie," to be held on the lawn of Miss Mary Parson's home, West Prospect avenue, Ingram, Saturday evening. Alfred Hamer, of Trinity Cathedral, will direct a group of madrigal singers; the Ingram Women's Club Choral, in costume, will sing, and a group of visiting entertainers will sing and dance. A cafeteria supper will be sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church. Guests have been requested to come in costume.

* * *

Mrs. William Sturgeon, of Reynolds street, entertained at tea yesterday, her guests being the social service workers of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches and Mrs. Harry G. Samson, chairman of the women's division. An unusual collection of curios collected on her foreign travels was displayed by the hostess.

Club Notes

Big sisters, junior mothers and members of Langley Parent-Teacher Association combined efforts yesterday in a somewhat unusual affair. All the students who will enter Langley in the fall, together with their mothers and a few of the fathers, were guests at a school work demonstration, intended to acquaint the freshmen with their new duties. While the big sisters took the boys and girls on a tour of the building, the junior mothers and the association executives escorted the parents to the school cafeteria, where tea was served.

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 22.—There are certain summer days when the only really practical dress to wear is one of light-weight woolen—a fact which governs a good deal of the designing of clothes that Paris is doing right now. Making clothes for women in Paris—where it is never particularly warm—is one thing, they've found out; while making dresses which American women must wear in town even during the hottest days of summer is another thing.

CLOTHES which look well in town, which are light-weight enough for a hot day, and which do not easily wrinkle, are difficult to make at any time. It is probably this year, for the first time, that Paris has been successful at the complicated task.

* * *

WOOL LACE is one of the materials that has turned out especially well for hot-weather wear. Paris makes it into all sorts of clothes for summer wear — skirt-and-jacket suits, sports dresses, afternoon gowns—even little tailored coats.

WORTH uses it to make an interesting all-day dress for town wear. As the sketch shows, it is fashioned along trim lines, kept free from any disturbing ruffles or frills. It keeps to the favorite Paris color scheme of black-and-white; the dress is black wool lace, the little tucked collar and bow are of white satin. The waistline is marked with a sash-belt of the wool lace, and ties itself as loose or as tight as may be preferred.

THE OTHER dress is also of light-weight wool, but a weave that is mixed with artificial silk. The darker portions of the blouse and the skirt are of navy blue—the lighter part in pastel blue. The incrustations which effect a yoke line around the shoulders are of navy blue.

TERRY GIVES UP POST JULY 1

The resignation of David J. Terry, director of the Children's Service Bureau, will become effective July 1, it was learned today. The vacancy will be filled by Miss Susan Boyd, assistant director.

The resignation of Terry, who was well known in child welfare circles, was asked several months ago by the board as an economy measure, it was stated today by an officers of the organization. The board was not in financial position to pay the high salary Terry commanded, the officer said.

Terry left his post at the bureau two months ago, and Miss Boyd has assumed the duties of director. A luncheon in his honor will be given today in Woman's City Club by the Allegheny County Board of Visitation.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

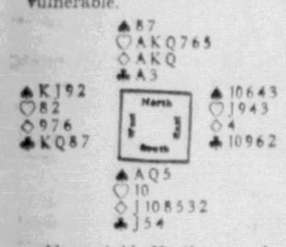
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Concealing Information

The purpose of Contract bidding is, generally speaking, the exchange of correct information so that the trick-taking possibilities of the hand be adequately measured and the correct final declaration reached. In other words, it is essential to give information to your partner as to your honor strength and distribution, so that, by the exchange of information, you may determine the suit at which the hand should be played, if a suit affords the greatest probability of a successful development, or no-trump, if that should be, on the honors and distribution, the best eventual contract.

Recently in a game of Duplicate Contract, in a contest between two teams-of-four, a vivid and interesting contrast between giving information and withholding it occurred on the hand shown below:

North—Dealer. Neither side vulnerable.



At one table North was a daring, rather over-bearing type of player. He cared little about what his partner had, and so, gazing at his strong hearts, his three solid tricks in diamonds and the Ace of clubs—a hand containing apparently only three losing tricks—he made a bid of four hearts. East, South and West passed in turn, and North had the satisfaction of playing the hand. A very sorry satisfaction it proved to be, however, when the North player compared his score with that at the table where sound bidding methods were followed.

There, with North's cards, the Opening bid was two hearts. When the additional value of the diamond Queen is considered, a bid of two hearts, with this hand, is fully justified. Game was an apparent certainty. Slam was a possibility. Therefore, North was fully strong enough to force a response from his partner. South was in the happy position where he would have responded even to a bid of one, as his hand contained a six-card biddable suit and 1½ honor-tricks besides. Therefore, in answer to the bid of two hearts, South bid three diamonds, a positive response to the Forcing bid. North then bid five diamonds, and South, who could have made the bid of three diamonds without the spade Queen, felt that at worst the hand had only one possible loser and bid six diamonds, which became the final contract.

The difference between correct bidding and incorrect bidding, the difference between driving and approaching, was easily visible in the score. North, in the first instance, scored 420 points. In the second instance, North and South, through correct exchange of information, scored 490 points. These figures are based upon the Duplicate value of 300 points given for a non-vulnerable game.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question:

South is Dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2◇	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♣	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

♠982 ♡K104 ◇KJ64 ♣Q95

Answer: Spade 9. An ideal situation for a waiting lead to preserve tenace positions in side suits and to hinder possible ruffing (especially of diamonds) by Dummy.

ANYONE who thinks that our forebears in the "Good Old Days" led more wholesome or happier lives than we do today is quite mistaken. The truth is that our ancestors lived lives that were dirty, dull and dangerous almost beyond belief. The clothes they wore and the fashions they followed were uncomfortable. Even the rich went in dread of calamities that nobody dreams of today. No one, apparently, was safe either alive or dead 100 years ago. Facts prove this rather conclusively, as pointed out in an exceptionally interesting article appearing in The American Weekly next Sunday. Parents Have No Right to Spoil Children's Lives

"What'll I do?" wailed Arlita. "The boy friend and I want to get married, but mama says if we do she'll kill herself!"

Now comes Arline, in the same boat; only—

"It isn't themselves they threaten to kill if I marry Phil; it's me!"

And what is Arline doing about it? Is she giving him up? Not so's you could notice it, she isn't! She's going ahead, for, sez she:

"All that ails my folks is that they want my pay check, and they think if I marry they won't get it. So—"

"Dear Sally Martin—

"After reading your advice to Arlita, I want you to know how much you have helped me, too. I am in the same position she is in, except my folks haven't threatened to kill themselves if I marry. No; I'm the one they'll kill, to hear them tell it.

"You told Arlita to go ahead and marry Jim, if they were both ready to face the bumps and chuckholes together, with humor and courage. Phil and I both feel that we are ready to do this, as we both have fine positions and good health and we love each other.

"Just two years ago my parents forbade me ever to see him again. They ranted and roared, made scenes before my friends in the street, and called Phil such names as I've never heard before and never want to hear again.

"However, I didn't do as they wished. Maybe it was wrong, but I did just the opposite. I saw him every night, unknown to them. If they had ever found it out I would certainly have got plenty, and I have always been afraid of that; but after reading your answer to Arlita, I don't care what they think.

TAKES SALARY HOME

"I am 19, too, but Phil is older than Arlita's Jim. He is 23. I will be 20 soon, and then I intend to make it clear to my folks that I will see Phil as often as I please, whether they like it or not. I work every day, and bring home my salary of $40 to them every week. All I ask in return is that they be civil about my seeing Phil, and so far they refuse to be. Well, we'll see.

"Phil's name is never spoken in our house any more, and if they ever dreamed that I saw him my mother would have one of her 'crying spells.' These so-called 'crying spells' have always made me give in, and mother knows it, but from now on I won't care who cries so long as it isn't me.

"I'm going to stick up for myself. I have done plenty for my folks—more than I can explain here.

GETTING IMPATIENT

"What do you think? Am I right? Shall I tell them of my intentions when I am 20? Phil is beginning to get impatient, for after all two years is a long time to go sneaking about so that no one will see us together, and if we have to keep it up I don't know what we will do.

"The only thing my family has against him is that I love him, and they're afraid of losing me because of my extra good job; but if this has to go on much longer I'll give up my job and run away. Perhaps that would give them something to think about.

"However, since reading your answer to Arlita, I feel that I can stand up for myself; and here's hoping that everything turns out in our favor, Arlita!

"ARLINE."

Are you right? Of course you are, youngster; and I'd tell the folks pronto that you have a right to marry if you want to, and that you intend to do it. You are not dependent on them; nor do they have a right to mess up your life.

So don't run away. Nothing was ever cured by running away from it. Since you and Phil are plenty able to take care of yourselves, I'd say—get married, and do your talking afterward. You don't need their consent.

Fay King Advises Use of Vaseline to Preserve Leather Binding of Books

YOUR LEATHER BOUND BOOKS WILL LOOK AS NICE ALWAYS, AS YOUR FURNITURE DOES IF YOU TREAT THEM AS WELL!
LEATHER BOOK BINDINGS DRY, BREAK, AND CRUMBLE IF NOT GIVEN LEATHER OIL
OLD BOOK
FAY KING

By FAY KING

It is surprising how many persons who own fine furniture and fine books will never neglect having the furniture oiled and varnished, but never give the books any such care.

Books in leather bindings should be treated with leather oil about every six months in steam-heated homes.

The heat dries the moisture of the leather and it will crumble and break and turn to dust in time.

The leather needs nourishment, and if you love your books, you will want to keep them in good condition.

If you happen to buy an old leather-bound book, just rubbing cold cream or vaseline into the leather binding will change it into a bright and "happy" looking book.

Be good to your books.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Ungracious

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Thanking a young man for a pleasant evening, I said in fun, "Thanks for the buggy ride and sandwich." We had gone for a drive and then had sandwiches and coffee. This young man informed me that I had made a breach in etiquette and told me I should not enumerate the things we had done during the evening, but just said "Thanks for a pleasant evening." I, too, agreed that this was the better form, but didn't agree that I had made a breech in etiquette. Did I?

Which one of us made the graver error, he for calling me down, or I for expressing myself as I did?

INQUISITIVE.

What a serious-minded young man your companion was, to take your "spoofing" form of thanks so humorlessly! Even if you did "enumerate" the items of hospitality, it was prissy of him and unnecessarily ungracious to call any attention to this fact. You were polite even if he did not thoroughly approve of your form of expression, and he wasn't mannerly in even mentioning his disapproval.

Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Should the outside envelope of a wedding announcement be addressed to the woman only, while the inside envelope is addressed to Mr. and Mrs?

A says that this is correct, while B maintains that the outside envelope should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Jones as well as the inside envelope.

Who is correct?

2. Also, will you kindly explain whether gloves are to be worn when one is to be married at home, very quietly dressed in one's traveling costume? I believe they are not to be worn during the ceremony, but I am not quite clear about this.

Thank you, and may I say that I am an interested follower of your column. H.

1. The outside envelope should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen Jones and the inside envelope should be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

2. When the bride dresses as informally as this she does not wear gloves.

Madge Hopes to Quiet Husband's Speculation

At the significant words of the wounded Chinese that "Lee Chow and Lee Chow bossman would be very pleased" with my promise to arrange a meeting between Lee Chow, when he should arrive, and the "head man bad mens," I felt my cheeks burning again. I was furious that I should be so embarrassed by this simple-minded servant's assumption that in some special way I belonged to Lee Chow's "boss man" who, of course, was no other than Hugh Grantland.

"Yes, I'll promise to do everything just as you say," I said hurriedly to cover my embarrassment, and the sick man smiled again.

"All lite," he said, "you please take letter now and call nurse. Me sleep."

I tiptoed from the room, carrying the letter with me, and met Katherine in the hall outside.

"Well?" she said with an upward inflection of her voice, has he spilled all the beans he knows?"

"To the last pod," I told her, smiling, glad of the chance to mask my embarrassment, "and it's quite an interesting mess. The letter says—"

Katherine put up her hand protestingly.

"Are you sure he wants me to know what he told you?" she asked.

"I do not know, and care less," I told her heatedly. "This temperamental wounded Chinese may refuse to tell his secrets to anyone but me, but I'm under no obligation to him to keep it a secret. Of course, I added slyly, "if you don't want to hear about it—"

"What's he doing?" she asked abrubtly.

"He's asleep," I answered. "At least, he closed his eyes and said that was what he was going to do."

"Is that rack still across the bed?" she asked.

"No," I answered. "I lifted it off just after he closed his eyes."

"Good girl!" she approved smilingly, "I'll make a nurse of you yet. And he'll do for a minute or two, so go ahead and spoon the lentils."

"There isn't much when it's boiled down to essentials," I said. "According to him, the fact that Marion has a lockbox with secret valuable contents, given her by her grandmother, is known to many people, chief of whom are Lee Chow, Lee Chow's 'boss man,' 'Hugh Grantland,' and the 'head man bad mens,' as your patient picturesquely calls the leader of the men who wounded him.

"He seems to think that Lee Chow will be much interested in the proposal of the 'head man bad mens' that they 'talky-talk' together over the box.

"I promised to arrange such a meeting—to have a white cloth put on the pasture fence to let them know that we will give the letter to Lee Chow, and to put a second one on when Lee Chow is ready for the interview. In return, they promise to go away, leaving only one man behind to watch for the signals, and not to molest us any more."

"Sounds like what we used to call a good 'ten, twent, thirt,'" she said, "but I certainly shouldn't put too much credence in their promises of 'hands off.'"

"Oh! I don't think Harry and Dicky will relax a single precaution." I said confidently. "But your patient seems a very sure that all danger is over."

She turned and went back into the room, but my steps were much slower than hers, as I walked through the living room to the veranda, where the men were still sitting.

There was no use putting off the evil hour, however. Perhaps if Dicky were sufficiently interested in my story of my interview with the sick man he would forget the speculation in which he patiently was indulging when I left the room.

With this hope in mind, I plunged into my story without preface as soon as I reached the veranda. They listened without comment until I had finished, and then Harry Underwood looked across at Dicky.

"What do you think?" he asked.

"A better man than I am has said it," Dicky answered. "I can't quote it exactly, but you remember what Bert Harte opined about 'ways that are dark and tricks that are vain,'"

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Have Your Eyes Tested.

Not long after reaching the age of 40 the average person will need glasses for reading. Sometimes headaches at that period, although this is not recognized, are due to eyestrain. It is strange, too, that the average person overlooks the necessity of changing the lenses pretty regularly.

Dr. Copeland

There is a remarkably steady change in the power of vision. Give me certain facts as to the eyesight and the strength of the glasses worn for reading and I can tell very accurately the age of the person. The progress of presbyopia, aging vision, runs parallel to the line of the birthdays.

By the way, you'd better go to see the friend who fits your glasses and as an excuse for the visit consult him about what I am telling you. While there, suggest that he look over your eyes and see if your glasses are all right.

Lots of times persons, young and old, think they are bilious, When really all they need is new glasses. Bear this in mind.

While headache, heavy feeling, dizziness and disinclination to work are commonly symptoms of some trouble with the digestion, it isn't always so. Eyestrain, due to lack of glasses or to badly fitting glasses, may account for the uncomfortable symptoms.

Here is another suggestion. Perhaps the frames of your glasses are bent, so that the lenses are not placed in front of your eyes as they should be. This puts the lenses "out of focus," changing the relation of the curve of the glasses to the eyes, so that actually an artificial form of eyestrain is produced.

It is a good thing to have the spectacle frames adjusted now and then. To do so will spare you a lot of unnecessary annoyance and real discomfort.

We get tired of wearing the same frames, and it is a good thing to have several pairs of glasses if you can afford it. Have a pair of spectacles or two, also a pair of nose glasses. You will be surprised what a relief there is in changing frames.

You can have such ill feelings from the need of glasses or from wrongly fitted glasses that you can easily imagine yourself sick; and it is just as bad to think you are sick as to be sick, isn't it?

Nobody can be efficient in work or be happy if suffering from eyestrain. It is silly to go about just half your real self when a test of the eyes reveal the real person. By getting the needed glasses you will be good as new.

Polly Ann Young and Billy Blakewell have put each other on ice. Her new heart being Gordon Oliver . . . Lily Damita is here looking for a job, too . . . Lydia Lindgren, the canary, who keeps suing Otto H. Kahn, has done a book about it—tagged: "My Heart in My Throat—The Story of a Strange Captivity" . . . Arthur Bulova, the watch-maker's boy, and Irene Jones, a Hollywood'arie, are blazing . . . Mrs. B. P. Shulberg, whose husband has strayed, is opening a casting office out there and using his name—making the breach all the wider . . . The first of the insane mags has dropped 700,000 because of all those imitators. . . . And they say: "Live and let lift!" Huh.

Teddy Fera's mater is Reno-bound to shelve her step-pater. . . . The time to visit the Players' Club is between 8:45 and 11:30 post meridian. The actors not working belittle those who are . . . One of the better magicians entertained a group of baddies in a Broadway restaurant the other sun-up with his quicker-than-the-eye stuff . . . When it was too late he discovered his pockets had been picked! . . . When the restaurateur Luchow died he left a huge chunk of the famous place to Nathan Burkan, the legalist . . . The Friars' Club lost a decision to the members appearing in the Frolic when they demanded a heavier percentage—or else! . . . Gilda Gray's current shadow is H. Hervey . . . New York City makes $500,000 a year on its garbage!

Emil Jannings was cabled a $15,000 offer to return in Ben Hecht's "Hippodrome" . . . The only free pass to the Empire State heights is a reporter's police card . . . "Mickey" Devine, who struck Carnera in Yurrop, had the Fascist curse put on her, and her lovely hair is no more . . . The Carl Shaws (Moselle Ransome), she was "Miss Dallas," are having the rivets melted in Texas . . . The Loew circuit is demanding that acts 10 years old, give tryouts practically for nothing . . . That bronze layout on the New Amsterdam Theater inner-foyer walls reveals Ziegfeld, Erlanger and Dillingham as they appeared in the 90s.

Martin Mooney's in the Queens yellimony jail . . . Mrs. Esmond O'Brien is now a saleslady in Hattie Carnegie's Paree branch. . . . Dina Harris, the ex-Mrs. Ted Trevor, is now the heart of a rich Argentine . . . Ted is London's speakeasy king, and don't let anyone tell you London hasn't any! . . . Billy Leeds has put $1,500,000 in trust for Olive Hamilton . . . June Brewster, one of the better-lookers, is in the Golden Gate State for her failing lungs . . . Katharine Burke, another of the glorifiedarlings is desperately ill at the Madison hosp . . . The Prince of Wales' favored companion is Leslie Hutchins, a colored genius at the piano from Harlem . . . Evelyn Laye has put on 30 pounds and Pearl White now tips the Toledos at 220 . . . They'll have to play to 30,000 patrons daily to break even at Radio City's music hall . . . If L. Holtz marries anyone it'll be Lyda Roberti, whom he adores . . . Gertrude Vanderbilt, the late Bill Fallon's heart, is doing a book about him to counter "The Great Mouthpiece."

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Mae West (Diamond Lil) herself, is going to enjoy (we assume) the experience of acting without being pinched. Miss West is somewhat familiar with the interior of New York's famed hoosegow, but now she is in Hollywood to act in her first picture, "Night After Night," a Paramount production. "Diamond Lil," which Miss West wrote and performed, was a rowdy stage hit of a few seasons ago, but she later did some writing and acting the police didn't like, and you know how obstinate some police can be.

Among communications is one from the New York office of Alexander McKaig stating that "Whistling in the Dark" will be included in this city's stage attractions next season. Mr. McKaig kinda likes "Whistling in the Dark"—you see, he produced it. Laurence Gross and Edward Childs Carpenter wrote it, and, with Ernest Truex in it, the play had a recent six-months run in New York. The company is now on the Pacific Coast for a tour, and the Midwest will see it as it comes back for an eastern tour that will open early in the fall.

Kaw Francis, who was all set for a Eureopean vacation with her husband, Kenneth McKenna, is spending it in New York instead, and will go back to Hollywood to play in "The Honest Finder" . . . Louise Fazenda will act one of the many roles in "Once In a Lifetime," the film of the play that spoofs the movies. Other already signed being Sidney Fox, Arline McMahon, Zasu Pitts and Andy Devine . . . Rehearsals of "The Good Earth," dramatization of the Pearl S. Buck novel, first play of the new season by the Theater Guild, will begin in August . . . Gov. Pinchot's preference in films runs to exploration and political intrigue, but Mrs. Pinchot likes detective thrillers . . . The Governor's niece, Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, herself an actress, goes for short films, sports, newsreels and animated comedies.

Court

Homecoming Of Amelia Screened

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The tumultuous reception given to Amelia Earhart Putnam, the only woman ever to fly the Atlantic alone, upon her return home, is pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Modestly she accepts the homage of a vast multitude in New York City as she rides through the sky-scraper canyon street, the air full of ticker tape and the roar of the crowd. Then follow scenes at City Hall with Mayor Walker giving her the official welcome and Mrs. Putnam replying. Referring to her flight she disclaims all credit for having accomplished anything of value to aviation and declares it was just "a personal gesture." The current Hearst Metrotone News is being screened in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

CREWS RACE

The sensational victory of the California Bears over seven other powerful crews in the varsity race on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, is humorously pictured and fully described by The Globe Trotter. The California crew showed its strength from the start, and although Cornell and Washington challenged the westerners, the Bears gradually pull away and finish two full lengths ahead of Cornell.

President Hoover and Vice President Curtis are pictured together on the White House grounds, their first meeting since their nomination for re-election. There are also pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover greeting crippled war veterans at the annual garden party on the lawn.

AIR COPS

Airplane traffic cops are shown on the job in New York. A reckless pilot is pictured having a good time looping-the-loop over the city's skyscrapers. Suddenly out pops a police plane which chases and captures the joy riding airman, and soon he and his plane are in the hoosegow hangar.

With a crowd of 30,000 present, Gusto, a 9 to 1 shot, is shown winning the American Derby at Homewood, Ill. Eleven horses get away to a thrilling start and Osculator, the favorite, takes the lead and holds it to the home stretch when suddenly Gusto dashes forward on the outside to win by two lengths. The winner is a grandson of Man O'War.

Una Merkel to Play Fox Picture

Una Merkel, screen comedienne, has been added to the cast of the Fox production, "Walking Down Broadway," which will feature James Dunn and Marian Nixon in the leading roles.

Ann Harding Will Be Aloof

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.

In the future, Ann Harding will give no interviews to the press.

As the first step in her new policy of aloofness, the blonde star has put her affairs in the hands of Harry Edington, Greta Garbo's business counselor and the man who many believe originally advised the Swedish actress to adopt an air of mystery.

Ann denies, however, that she is copying Garbo.

"After the divorce," she told me, "I decided the only thing to do was not to talk about anything."

The fact is, Ann is very much embittered about all the gossip that followed what she and Harry Bannister intended to be a clean-cut announcement of their separation. She always has hated publicity, anyway, and this was the final straw.

Ann Harding

I did find out, and I hope Ann will forgive me for wheedling a sort of interview out of her, that she raised objections to the story R-K-O wants her to do with Richard Dix. She won't pass final judgment, though, until she sees the script.

BOULEVARD TALK

Unpredictable thing success. A few years ago, Mae Clarke, Barbara Stanwyck and Wanda Mansfield were doing high-kicks together in a night club line. Now Mae and Barbara are stars, while Wanda is playing bits around the studios . . . What a chance Anita Page missed to talk back to her family. Last week her mother, father and brother all had their tonsils out at the same time . . . Will Mahoney never throws away cigar wrappers. He's had 408 of them made into a hat. Expensive kind of head-gear. Cost him $65 worth of cigars . . . Saw Alice White judging a dance contest of high school kids at the Frolics . . . George Raft, by the way, is still rushing Maxine Lewis, blues singer at this bright spot . . . Jack Harvey (Jimmy Durante's manager) very attractive to a comely blonde . . . It's rather pathetic, the pride of these former well-known players whom hard times have driven into playing atmosphere. Saw one thank a director the other day for letting him stand with his back to the camera in a closeup . . . A bit of good news for Joe E. Brown fans. The awning-lipped comedian has recovered enough to sit up and play bridge.

After playing personal appearances for these many months, Walter Hiers is back in makeup at the Paramount studio. He'll do a comedy role for Charles Rogers in "70,000 Witnesses." Like many of the old silent stars, Walter still is popular around the land. He gets steady bookings for personal appearances.

Walter Hiers

Other new players in the Rogers thriller include Big Boy Williams, Phil Tead and Humphrey Bogart.

COLMAN IS WORKER

Is it true, I wonder, Ronald Colman's notion that the public thinks of him as a dilatory and disinterested actor, who comes to the studio, says his piece, and then goes home to his tea, his tennis, his pipe and his dog!

Actually, Ronnie is a diligent artist.

For the three stories that Samuel Goldwyn has considered for him this year, Ronnie has worked out his own characterization and playing script. He always knows his lines perfectly, he's always on time for rehearsals. With the help of his manager, William Hawks, he practically has established his own auxiliary reading department to help Goldwyn and his staff find suitable Colman stories. He personally answers any out of the ordinary fan mail. His photos are not machine autographed.

Ronnie has been an actor for 15 years. He feels he isn't an overnight star and has attained his position by hard work.

If he is right in assuming that a false impression has been created about him, maybe this will help correct it.

Fair

McKeesporter Sued On Desertion Charge

Esther Jane Soles, 722½ Copeland street, Pittsburgh, filed a divorce suit against Robert Lea Soles, 2127 Versailles avenue, McKeesport, in Common Pleas Court, charging desertion December 31, 1929. They were married January 11, 1919.

Divorce suits were filed by Ethel F. Baldwin against Edward L. Baldwin, Joseph Deida against Marie Deida, Esther Steinmetz against Henry Steinmetz, Arthur W. Cowdy against Grace O. Cowdy, Roberta Prophater against Sidney C. Prophater.

Davis Books Bush Film

A white woman living in a cave, wearing no clothes, the wife of an Australian aborigine who won her in a boomerang battle with the other men of the tribe, is the romance from real life that gives a dramatic twist to "The Blonde Captive," the motion picture record of the expedition of Dr. Paul C. Withington, of Harvard, coming to the Davis Theater Friday. Dr. Withington hoped to find living proof of the existence of the Neanderthal cave man in Australia. Australia not only is the backwash of primitive man, but of primitive animals, and Dr. Withington proved it by yanking down from a tree a weird lizard left over from the age of reptiles. They also found the oldest mammal known to science. This is the duck-billed platypus, with a bill and webbed feet like a duck, and fur like a beaver. Then there are the giant turtles that Louis de Rougemont, a French traveler, first told the world about and was laughed at for his pains, and other strange animals. Lowell Thomas narrates the story of the expedition.

O'Brien Cast in New Film of West

George O'Brien, Fox western star, had barely settled himself in Hollywood, after a location trip to Arizona where his picture, "Mystery Ranch," was filmed, when he was told to pack his grip again, this time for a long jaunt into Utah, which will serve as the background for his next film, "Robbers' Roost."

Zasu Pitts to Star In 'Auto Camp'

The movies believe that summer and the camping season are here in a large way. In fact, one studio will put "Auto Camp" into production just to prove it. Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts are to co-star in this farce of flivver travelers. Instead of being out-and-out comics, they will play for sympathy—just ordinary persons in funny situations.

Holt, Graves in 'War Correspondent'

Columbia's "War Correspondent," a comedy drama with the Sino-Japanese war as a background, will bring together again the team of Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, the buddies who appeared as co-stars in the company's road-show productions, "Submarine," "Flight" and "Dirigible."

Barbara Weeks Will Play Lead

Columbia Pictures has signed Barbara Weeks for the feminine lead opposite Ben Lyon, and Tom Dugan for the principal comedy part in "Murder in a Pullman." This is the company's thrilling mystery drama, based on Harry Adler's magazine story.

Constance Cummings Signs Contract

Constance Cummings has been signed by Columbia Pictures for the featured role of Megan Davis, the New England girl, in "The Bitter Tea of General Yen." This marks the fourth production in which Miss Cummings has appeared almost simultaneously.

Irene Dunne Given Leading Role

RKO Radio's search for 13 women to comprise the feminine cast of Tiffany Thayer's "Thirteen Women" has dwindled to 12 with the assignment of Irene Dunn the leading role in the forthcoming production of the Tiffany Thayer novel.

VET POLITICAL MEET PLANNED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—Plans for a "convention" of the bonus army to decide whether political activity will be confined to fighting bonus opponents or whether a third party move shall be attempted were being formulated today by leaders of the veterans.

A split between the legislative committee and the executive officers of the army has developed over the question. The committee recommended a third party attempt if the Democratic convention ignores the bonus issue. Commander-in-Chief Walter W. Waters and his aides have warned against it.

Plans for evacuating a majority of the army, now variously estimated at 18,000 to 23,000, were not being held up by the convention idea, however. Many of the men were taking "French leave," going home without a word to their company commanders. Waters admitted yesterday that the army was shrinking.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Woman of It

ANNIE WAS BORN in that section of New York that considered the wise guy the head man. If a mug killed another mug and beat the murder rap, he was the hero of the neighborhood for some time to come. But if by any chance he was convicted—that was just too bad. They read the reports in the newspapers, said he was a game guy, and that was the end of that. It was also the end of him.

From her earliest days, then, Annie had been raised among the bad boys. Small wonder that, although she perhaps failed to realize it, she was thinking along crooked lines before she was old enough to wear short dresses. Of the 20 boys in her class in school, 16 wanted to be either newspapermen, lawyers or politicians—and the other four didn't want to go straight either.

In some 20 years, nature and time having entered into an excellent working agreement, Annie grew to be a very pretty young lady. She had eyes that were lovable; lips that were kissable, hair that was adorable, and a few front teeth that were removable. One peep at her and you would have to agree with the rest of the boys: she was indeed a Pleasing Eyeful.

Just about this stage of the game, Annie's papa made some money. He had always had an income, of course, but this was his first taste of important dough. And the very first thing he did was to move away from the old neighborhood.

After a month or two in this new section of New York, Annie met the boy friend. His name was George, and his viewpoint on life was very different from the one that Annie held.

He knew nothing of the philosophies of the tough guy. About 29 years of age, he had graduated from high school and had gone right to work in his father's store. And there he remained. He liked to read, went to the mountains for two weeks every year, enjoyed a motion picture once a week, talked glibly about women he had never met, and took a bottle of magnesia whenever he had a headache.

It is extremely probable that he would have remained contented if Annie hadn't happened along. But she popped into a neighboring apartment and George's life underwent a change the moment he met her. He took her to a movie that very night and entertained her later in his Saturday night speakeasy, even though it was Tuesday night. Before they said good night at the conclusion of that first date, George was as hooked as any man could ever hate to be.

And what was even more unlucky was that he seemed to strike a responsive chord in Annie's heart. She encouraged his attentions to her and even went so far as to toss a few of her own in his direction. After a month had gone by, they were seeing each other every night. And after two months they were discussing the prices of furniture and the right type of radio.

It was just about that time that Annie's background and George's lack of comprehension met in a head-on collision. They were seated in a restaurant, and three strangers gave Annie the come-hither look. George saw it, but he merely smiled.

"You see that, honey," he murmured placidly, "even strangers smile at you. That shows how pretty you are."

"There you go," she cried. "I didn't want to say anything about it, George, but that's your whole trouble. I'm crazy about you and all that, but sometimes I feel as though I'd like to take a good poke at you.

"What's the matter with you, anyhow? Down where I come from—and I'm proud to say it—those muzzlers would probably wind up with broken jaws if I was out with a guy and they did what they're doing now. How can you sit there and see me insulted?

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, George. You ought to have a little respect for yourself, even if you haven't any for me."

That was more than any man could stand. George turned around and saw that the men were still ogling. For the first time in his life he saw red—and he had been talked into it. Shivering, but attempting to preserve an outward calm, he arose and walked over to the other table.

"You guys will keep your eyes away from my table," he muttered, "or we'll fight it out. Which one of you wants to start?"

For a moment neither of the three men spoke. Then one smiled.

"Forget it, buddy," he said. "We didn't mean anything. Can we send you over a drink?"

George declined the invitation and walked slowly back to Annie.

"Just some cheap mugs," he assured her as he seated himself again. "I told them where they got off. One more word out of them, and I would've flattened the three of them."

He had ceased shivering. Instead, he felt a warm glow. He had just discovered how pleasurable it was to be a tough guy . . .

If ever a woman changed a man, Annie did George. Before they had been married two years, the young man was a totally different character from the one we met in the early part of the story.

With Annie's encouragement he was now a fighting fool. After he had connected with one chin in an early engagement his reputation grew by leaps and bounds. He had tasted blood, and he loved it. He walked with a swagger now and was ready to swing at the drop of a wrong word. He began to associate with an element that he had never known before—and when he found that they were willing to accept him as one of the the mob, his ego knew no bounds.

He retained his position in his father's store, but it had become nothing more than a sideline to him. He played the ponies now with a great deal of avidity, and had managed to do quite a bit of business among his old friends.

The rest of the story is short, but very complete. George left his apartment one morning in a very jovial mood. A large sedan passed as he walked down the street—and George stopped walking.

The ambulance surgeon counted 16 bullets in his body.

"My poor, poor George," she wailed. "I begged him to leave the racket. I asked him to reform. But he wouldn't listen to me. My poor, poor George."

Strikingly, Radically New Phantom* Kotex

SANITARY NAPKIN (U. S. Pat. No. 1,857,854)

Most important improvement in sanitary protection since the invention of Kotex itself in 1920.

AT LAST! A radically new design in sanitary protection. You are scarcely aware that you have it on. Made, of course, by Kotex—originators of the modern sanitary napkin.

It is called PHANTOM * KOTEX. Why? Because the ends are so flattened and tapered that it leaves no outlines even under the closest-fitting of gowns. Not the slightest bulk suggested even under the filmiest of summer silks. And—for those who require extra protection—Super-Phantom Kotex is ideal. There's extra protective surface but the ends are so skilfully flattened as to be completely inconspicuous

Kotex features retained

The special Kotex features you have always appreciated are retained, of course. It is soft after hours of use, wonderfully absorbent; treated to deodorize; can be worn, with equal protection, on either side; disposable, easily.

More than 24 million pads were used in hospitals alone last year

Insist upon getting genuine Kotex, when you buy it already wrapped. Each tapered end of the new pad is stamped "Kotex" now—so you can't get inferior substitutes.

Kotex prices are today the lowest in Kotex history. This new improvement comes to you at no increase in price. All dealers have the new PHANTOM KOTEX.

HOW SHALL I TELL MY DAUGHTER?

Many a mother wonders. Now you simply hand your daughter the little booklet entitled, "Marjorie May's Twelfth Birthday." For free copy, address Mary Pauline Callender, Room 2140, 180 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The new Kotex is called PHANTOM * KOTEX because—you scarcely realize you are wearing it!

No revealing outlines—The new PHANTOM KOTEX is flattened and tapered so that ends are completely inconspicuous.

Lastingly soft—disposable—The same softness and absorbency for which Kotex is famous. Disposable always.

Copyright, 1932, Kotex Company

NO "LIGHT ENDS"
"Light ends" evaporate. • Cause excessive oil consumption. • Have low viscosity. • Have low lubricating value under heat.

NO "HEAVY ENDS"
"Heavy ends" contain residual impurities. • Form tar-like deposit on exhaust valve stem. • Form carbon deposit in combustion chamber, on underside of piston head and behind the piston rings. • Cause formation of crankcase sludge.

ATLANTIC
Paraffine Base
MOTOR OIL
The Heart of the Crude

HERE'S the most important motoring news of recent years! You can now buy, for the first time, a motor oil so far in advance of anything on the market that no comparison can be made. It is the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL—heart of the crude—the richest, choicest paraffine-base motor oil ever produced commercially.

This amazing product brings you (1) decreasing operating costs; (2) better engine performance; (3) lower repair bills. Here's why: When crude oil is refined, the oils distilled at low temperatures are known as "light ends"; those in the middle of the distillation range are termed "heart oils"; the residues remaining are called "heavy ends." The "heart oils" have the highest lubricating efficiency.

In customary refining practice, the "light ends" and "heavy ends" are blended. But tests prove that nearly all lubricating troubles come from these "light" and "heavy" ends.

Therefore ATLANTIC rejects them, using only the heart of the crude! This means that the yield from a given amount of oil is only about one-half of that usually obtained. But it also means a finished oil that will do a better lubricating job—over a longer period of time—than any other product ever offered motorists.

And this marvelous new oil sells at no extra cost. It is a fitting companion to ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH, the great super-fuel that sells at regular-gas price. Give your car the unequaled protection of the heart of the crude. Use the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL . . . now and in the future.

Democrat Convention Views Of Shields and Gibbons In Series on WCAE

With interest in the Democratic national convention which opens in Chicago Monday surging to a climax, WCAE listeners will be kept in touch with latest developments by a group of all-star observers headed by Mark Shields and Floyd Gibbons, whose daily articles will be a feature of the Sun-Telegraph; William Hard, NBC commentator, and Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the national committee and former governor of Wyoming.

A preview of the convention, as seen by Mr. Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, who is in Chicago, is presented to WCAE listeners tonight. Mr. Shields' views and comments are read by one of his associates on the Sun-Telegraph editorial staff at 6 o'clock. Activities of Pennsylvania's Democratic delegates in Chicago, in addition to policies of national importance, are discussed.

Mr. Shields

Tomorrow night, Mr. Hard will be heard over WCAE at 11:15. Floyd Gibbons gives his rapid-fire account Saturday night, and Mrs. Ross speaks at the same time Sunday night, on the eve of the opening session.

The Stebbins Boys—Arthur Allen and Parker Fenelly—celebrate the program's first anniversary on the air with a special broadcast on KDKA tonight at 7:30.

Two prominent business leaders discuss reduced governmental costs as the first step toward business recovery over KDKA tonight. They are Charles H. Swift, of Swift & Co., at 7:30, and P. B. Saylor, president of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., at 9:30. The talks are two of a series.

Program Pointers

Jeanne Clasky, soprano, and Paul Gannon, tenor, are featured as soloists with the WCAE String Ensemble composed of Katherine Rickert and Marcus Klein, violinists; Alyce Martin, 'cellist, and Juda D'Ayne and Ralph Federer, pianists, tonight at 10:30. The half-hour recital consists of popular and semi-classical music .... The fourth episode of 'Sheer Romance,' starring Helen Wayne and Claud Morris as Sophie Peabody and Nathaniel Hawthorne, is presented from the studios of KDKA tonight at 8:15. Frederick G. Rodgers is narrator, with a musical background provided by the KDKA Orchestra.

New Alliances May Result at Chicago

By MARK SHIELDS

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Democratic National Convention promises to be a kaleidoscopic political chaos of old feuds buried, new ones revived, old friendships shattered and new alliances cemented.

Mr. Shields

Whether the question of who will be the presidential nominee is settled in one ballot or 20, there will be a trail of bitterness and animosity capable of exerting a widespread effect upon the election next November.

As an example, the positions of Al Smith, William McAdoo, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania.

In the days of the Wilson administration, McAdoo and Roosevelt were firm friends. Then came the Democratic convention of 1924, when Roosevelt nominated Smith, and through the torrid days of that historic partisan civil war stuck with the New Yorker while he and McAdoo killed each other off. McAdoo has not forgotten.

Eight years later and McAdoo is found loyally backing the candidacy of Speaker John Garner, of Texas, acting as chairman of the California delegation which the Texan won in a three-cornered primary that meant the defeat of both Roosevelt and Smith.

McAdoo and Smith are standing shoulder to shoulder in their desire to defeat Roosevelt, the friend of one up to 1924, and the friend of the latter to and through the 1928 campaign, when again he nominated Smith and saw him the party standard bearer. No stranger alliance has ever eventuated in politics.

Guffey Now Seeking Roosevelt Victory

Then picture Guffey, whose sister, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, made one of the seconding speeches for Smith in 1928, incidentally, one of the best speeches ever made in a national convention. Four years ago Guffey was wholeheartedly for Al.

This year every effort of Guffey and his colleague, David L. Lawrence, Democratic chairman in Allegheny County, is devoted to furthering the nomination of Roosevelt and to the burial of Smith as a national Democratic figure.

Guffey reached Chicago this morning and immediately went into conference with James A. Farley, state chairman of New York, and national Roosevelt leader. It was Farley who came to Guffey's aid in Harrisburg last month when the Roosevelt forces elected Warren Van Dyke state chairman and ousted John Collins, backed by National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, and friendly to Smith.

As a foundation for bitterness there always looms the effort of the Roosevelt people to beat Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the national committee, as permanent chairman of the convention.

Shouse has the backing of National Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Garner forces, of every one not definitely in the Roosevelt movement. In interchanges between Raskob and Farley yesterday sparks flew. Farley intimated quite plainly that if the Roosevelt people thought it necessary or advantageous to their cause they would not hesitate to break the two-thirds rule. Raskob thought that improper. Farley jeered at the idea he should notify Raskob that Shouse was to be opposed by Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

Campaign Chest Might Suffer Loss

The whole situation provides the foundation for party divisions which will find Raskob, Smith, McAdoo and others sitting on their hands if Roosevelt should be nominated. And the apathy of Raskob toward the nomination would mean depreciated contributions to the campaign chest a not unimportant question.

Tammany is in a fix. John Curry, the boss, has no love for Smith at present. He would like to throw a substantial majority of the delegation to Roosevelt. But if he carries things with too high a hand here, and affronts Smith, then it is practical certainty that Smith will run for Mayor of New York, with every one conceding him victory. In control of the city government, and in reprisal for any affront he might suffer here, Smith could just about smash Tammany.

The New York Democratic organization doesn't care much who is President so long as it controls the city government.

Though the Democrats hold the center of the stage now, there are some Republican backwashes which are interesting, and which are just being revealed. One concerns the abortive attempt of former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, to withdraw his own name and nominate Calvin Coolidge, an effort which was prevented when Chairman Bertrand Snell, under the direction of James Francis Burke, gave France the bum's rush and prevented utterance.

Dawes Boom Seen Behind Coolidge Plan

It is not conceivable that Coolidge could have been nominated, though there was substantial sentiment for him. The Southern delegates and a few other delegations were too well controlled to prevent any immediate stampede, but there were fears in the Hoover camp, as back of the Coolidge pronouncement was a movement for Charles G. Dawes, which would

WOMAN JAILED AS SHOPLIFTER

Miss Ann Rodgers, flying shoplifter, today began serving three to six years in Allegheny County Workhouse, where she was sent by Judge James H. Gray. She was alleged to be a member of a New York gang which operated in all large cities. About a year ago, with a young woman campanion, she was caught in a Pittsburgh store, making off with dresses and coats.

When they pleaded guilty, Judge Gray paroled them for six years, only to learn that they had hurried in a taxi from the courtroom to Bettis field, where they took a plane to speed back to the gang in New York.

Miss Rodgers was brought back here yesterday, charged with violating her parole. She admitted she had shoplifted again and served eight months in New York. For violation of the parole Judge Gray sent her to the workhouse.

Two Youths Held In Beating of Girl

Michael and Paul Taormina, of Twenty-fifth street, were held in the county jail today, charged with beating a 15-year-old Millvale girl and leaving her unconscious on a country road, according to Justice of the Peace James S. McGinley, of Millvale.

The girl, it was testified, accepted an invitation to accompany the youths and a girl from Bloomfield on an auto ride. After the Bloomfield girl had been taken home, the young men drove the other girl to the country and forced her from the machine, according to McGinley.

Pastor Installed By Bellevue Church

The Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut today had formally begun his pastorate of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church. He was installed last night in services participated in by his father, the Rev. Dr. William H. Hudnut, of Youngstown; the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, who resigned the Bellevue pastorate to become president of Westminster College, and other prominent in the Pittsburgh presbytery.

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr charged the minister, Dr. Galbreath the congregation and the Rev. Dr. Charles C. Cribbs, moderator of the Pittsburgh presbytery, conducted the installation service.

COUNTY TO CUT 87 MORE JOBS

The elimination of 87 more county positions, this time in the Bureau of Property and Supplies, has been voted by County Commissioners to take effect July 1.

Most of the reduction is in personnel of the motor division which was recently consolidated at the McKean street garage, South Side, and the garage at Parkview abandoned. Operating forces are also being shifted from one county building to another as the need arises.

The reduction, together with a number of salary cuts, will bring about an estimated annual saving to the county of $191,000.

V. E. Voss Elected Mercator Trustee

Victor E. Voss, of Pittsburgh, was elected to the board of trustees of the Mercator Club today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Buffalo. Dr. Edward B. Markey, of Dayton, O., was elected president and Godfrey Yeager, of Indianapolis, was elected vice president.

Motorist Reports Theft of Mandolin

J. D. Dyson, of New Brighton, reported to city detectives today that a mandolin had been stolen from the running board of his automobile while it was parked in the downtown section. The mandolin, in a case, was valued at $110.

CRITICS CALLED TO SUPPORT COMPLAINT

Commissioners Yield to Demand for Inspection of Alleged Defective Devices

Samples of Allegheny County's voting machines were to be publicly inspected by County Commissioners at 4 p. m. today. Critics of the machines are to be given an opportunity to point out defects.

The 1,100 voting machines, which cost the taxpayers $1,120,900 have been the object of so much criticism, that commissioners have decided to give the machines a public trial.

This decision was reached in spite of a negative recommendation by the Law Department, which has been seeking to work out an adjustment with the Poole Engineering and Machine Company to provide for additional bracing and the improvement of the straight party voting mechanism.

Commissioner C. M. Barr appealed for a greater spirit of cooperation. He declared the commissioners have been doing all they can to make the machines workable and should be given a fair chance.

B. B. Sklar, formerly employed by the Commercial Equipment Company, and Paul McClelland, formerly with the Poole Company, are being relied upon by the critics of the vote machines to show wherein the devices are lacking.

Officials of the voting machine companies will also be present to speak in defense of the machines. The League of Women Voters, who have asked twice for the demonstration, have been notified to be present.

CITY TO ERECT TENTS FOR IDLE

A tented city to care for 500 destitute and homeless men will be erected at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview during the summer, it was decided today as City Council Finance Committee approved a $5,000 appropriation to care for the men.

A number of government tents will be obtained and erected on the grounds of the institution, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department, said. The men to be cared for are all Pittsburghers, it was said, and have been cared for throughout the winter and spring months at the Helping Hand.

Conditions have become overcrowded there, and it was decided to make the change. All buildings at Mayview, too, are taxed beyond capacity, and it was decided to erect tents.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS Cal., June 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, you all got to quit knocking Congress. Didn't you see what they did? Passed a bill to cut their own salaries. Come on, let's give the boys a great big hand. That was mighty good of 'em at that.

Will Rogers

Well, how did your new taxes work? Everybody is wondering how they come to tax the articles that they did. Well, I found out how it was done. They gave each member permission to bring in the name of some article that he particularly didn't like personally, and they put a tax on for him.

Yours, WILL.

STATE RELIEF BILLS DRAFTED

HARRISBURG, June 22.—(AP.)—Attorney General William A. Schnader was busy today drafting the 14 measures agreed upon for passage at a special session of the Legislature starting Monday.

Speed will be the keynote of the session, which is called for unemployment relief, and leaders hope to introduce half the bills in one House and half in the other the very night the session convenes. They look for passage by the end of the week, and hope to have all the work done by July 14, the date tentatively set for adjournment.

In line with the plans to expedite the session, Gov. Gifford Pinchot will deliver his address Monday night as well. The two houses will go into joint session to hear him soon after their conventions.

SEES POWERS OF ASSEMBLY USURPED

Former State Supreme Court Justice Scores Methods Before Bar Convention

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot was criticized for his methods in seeking relief measures through special legislative session by former Justice of the State Supreme Court Robert von Moschzisker in his address before the State Bar Association in convention today.

Moschzisker, president of the association, pointed out that the Governor should shoulder his own responsibility and let the Legislature do likewise. Moschzisker said:

"The Governor, at the last session of the Legislature, after undertaking not only to set a general program for the Legislature, which was his right and duty, but also to fill in many of the details, which was neither his right nor duty, at the end of May announced he would not call another special session unless, forsooth, the leaders of the Republican state and the Philadelphia local political organizations would agree with him as to what the Legislature—elected by the people—were to do, and then see to it that they acted accordingly.

ASSEMBLY FUNCTIONS

"In other words, the chief executive, who is not the taxing power, and the political chieftians, who are not supposed to be part of the taxing power, are to sit down together, and, in effect, perform the functions of the General Assembly, which is a taxing power."

Judge Moschzisker condemned "applauding by many of the principal newspapers of the state" of the Pinchot action. He said he did not wish to be too critical, tnat leaders should be allowed to offer suggestions which might aid, but that to demand the Legislature "pass wily-nill" all things offered by the leaders is wrong.

INTEREST IN POLITICS

Members of the Bar Association were admonished to take a greater interest in politics and to "take a place in public life as a leader of thought instead of being satisfied, as is now so frequently the case, by use of his training and talents to guide other leaders, too often of mediocre education and inferior ability."

The former jurist declared all citizens must take an interest in politics or be "taxed to death."

CITY TO ISSUE RELIEF BONDS

Mayor Kline, councilmen and leaders of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association today agreed on the need of relief bonds totaling $800,000.

At a meeting in the Mayor's office today, Controller J. P. Kerr was instructed to draw up an ordinance authorizing the sale of the bonds.

The bonds are to be supplied from the $3,000,000 direct relief bonds approved by the voters at the last election.

Child's Testimony May Doom Mother

ROCKFORD, Ill., June 22.—(AP.)—Nellie May Morris, a shy little girl of seven, told officials a story which they said may send her mother, Mrs. Lucille Morris, 28, to prison on a charge of murder.

The child, officers said, declared she saw her mother "with a big pistol in her hand" after John F. Engel, 39, was shot to death Mrs. Morris has insisted Engel's death was a suicide.

North Side Library Binding Bids Sifted

David Cadugan, of the North Side Carnegie Library, and Supplies Director W. R. Dunlap today were tabulating bids of 14 bookbinders, opened yesterday, for the rebinding of books and magazines at the library. Council has appropriated $4,000 for the purpose.

Cadugan and Dunlap said the contract would be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder within the next few days.

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Al is going to catch himself some 200-pound candidates and present their pelts to Tammany.

Its going to be one of those Democratic conventions where they will burn the barn down to get rid of the mice.

You have your choice of candidates. Ritchie, Garner, Baker, Roosevelt or Smith.

Al might not play any political golf in the Democratic open. But you can bet your last Hooverized dollar that Al will be the caddy who hands the boys their clubs.

Al's claim to supremacy is paradoxical. He polled the biggest vote and got the biggest beating of any Democrat in history.

Like the rhinoceros on the ark, he takes plenty of room, is a big load, can rock the boat when he wants to and nobody is putting him off.

A Smith-Roosevelt flareup split the election meeting of the Seventeenth Ward Democrats last night in the Humboldt School, Twentieth and Sarah streets.

Both groups claimed victory. The Smith group reported the election of John F. O'Neil, incumbent, as ward chairman. The Roosevelt group, led by David L. Lawrence, reported the election of John J. Baker.

The Smith followers charge Baker quit the meeting after he had attempted to preside. They also reported O'Neil was elected after order was restored, and resolutions calling on the delegates to support Smith's platform at the convention was adopted.

Lawrence said he appointed Baker chairman of the oganization to replace O'Neil. O'Neil, Lawrence said, automatically forfeited his office by registering Republican at the last election.

Other Democratic ward chairmen elected at meetings last night were:

First Ward, P. J. Donohoe; Second, Daniel J. Sweeney; Third, Charles J. McCall; Fourth, James P. Kirk; Fifth, M. B. Donnelly; Sixth, Edward J. Vogel; Seventh, Joseph D. Lawler; Eighth, George H. PRESIDENT DECORATING AMELIA

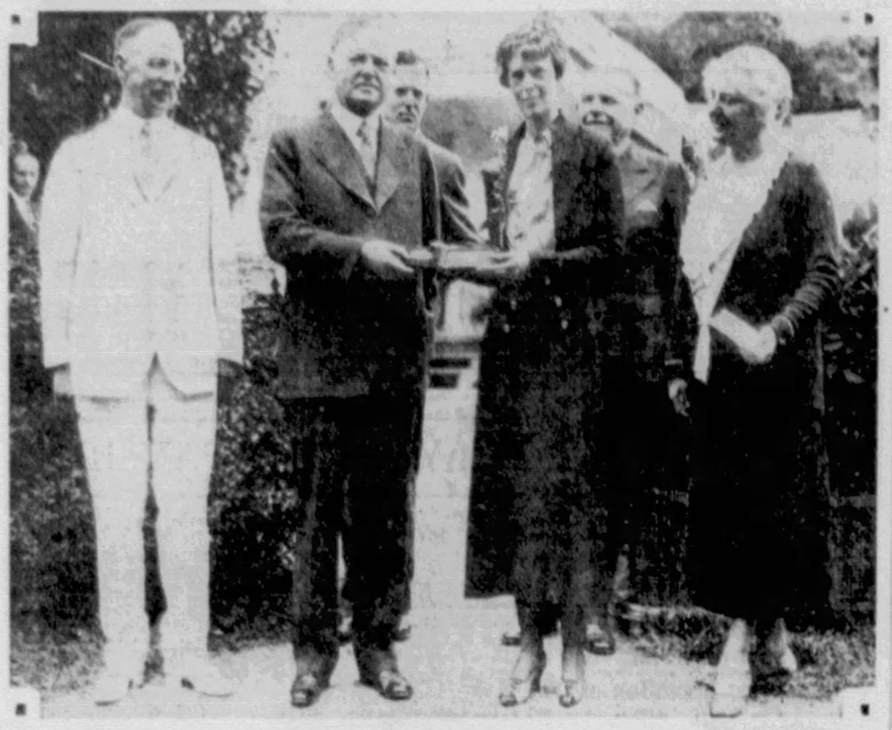
AMELIA EARHART PUTNAM



DR. GILBERT GROSVENOR — PRESIDENT HOOVER — MRS. HOOVER

President Hoover's presentation on the White House lawn of the Gold Medal award of the National Geographic Society, awarded flying Mrs. Earhart. This is a Wide World News Photograph Service picture.

Man Bites 8 Jurors For Convicting Him

ANTIOCH, Ill., June 22.—(AP.)—County authorities say that Jack Wilcox is something of a human snapping turtle.

They reported that he bit eight jurors in Justice Court yesterday because they convicted him of biting the Antioch town marshal, John Brogan, after he arrested him recently on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Sign Language Used In Murder Trial

KANSAS CITY, June 22.—(AP.)—An interpreter with flying fingers translated spoken words into signs today at the murder trial of Norman D. Hunt, 59, deaf mute, charged with the slaying of Louis Coleman, 34, another deaf mute.

Old Postal Clerk To Be Buried Here

William H. Brown, 90, retired veteran postal worker of the old Allegheny postoffice, who died in Detroit yesterday, will be buried here Friday. Mr. Brown, born and reared in old Allegheny, was one of the first five carriers assigned to Allegheny office. He was assistant superintendent at the time of his retirement in 1915. He resided at Haysville until three years ago, when he moved to Detroit.

AMELIA GIVEN FLIGHT MEDAL

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(Universal.)—"My trans-Atlantic flight really added nothing to aviation. It was primarily a gesture of personal satisfaction."

Such was the modest response of Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam last night when she received the National Geographic Society's special medal from the hands of President Hoover in recognition of her daring solo flight across the Atlantic. She received the medal in the presence of President and Mrs. Hoover and gathering from official and diplomatic life.

The presentation climaxed a day in which many honors were heaped upon the daring young aviatrix. Preceding the presentation, she and her husband, George P. Putnam, were guests of honor at a small White House dinner attended by department secretaries for aeronautics, Gilbert H. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, and Mrs. Grosvenor.

It was Mrs. Putnam's second appearance at the White House, for she had called on the President earlier in the day for a movie presentation of the medal.

3 Burned to Death As 3 Trucks Collide

LANCASTER, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—Three men were burned to death and a fourth was taken, seriously injured, from the flaming wreckage of three trucks, which collided early today on the Lincoln Highway three miles east of here.

Two of the dead were identified by state police as Philip Novey, 19, of Philadelphia, and Howard Stark, 30, of Mt. Joy. The third was tentatively identified as Howard McAlister, of Wilmington, Del. Edward Novey, brother of Philip, was expected to recover at the Lancaster General Hospital.

POLITICS

immediately have been set off, and with much more danger to Hoover than lay in the Coolidge boom.

William H. Vare, according to France, had sent word to his representative here, James M. Haslett, to join in any Coolidge movement, and the regular leaders knew that.

A break in Pennsylvania would have been embarassing, particularly as Vare was the man who forced the Mellon hand in 1928 and hastened the nomination of Hoover.

Coolidge would not have taken the nomination. But the former President knows exactly what went on. He knows that the Hoover adherents handcuffed and gagged what might have been for him no more than a complimentary demonstration, but a pleasing one. It will not be surprising to find Mr. Coolidge in the coming campaign attending strictly to his private business, and letting Mr. Hoover's bright minds do what they can for their leader.

Jobless Girl Sets Clothing Afire, Dies

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 22.—(AP.)—A young woman whose gasoline-soaked clothing was found ablaze, died in a hospital here today. She gave her name as Mrs. Winnie R. Matthews, 20.

After failing to obtain work at concessions along the boardwalk at Lake Worth, she purchased a quart of gasoline and obtained matches. Later she was found in a ditch with her clothing afire, and mumbling:

"I love you."

Near-Beer Makers Held Law Violators

NEWARK, N. J., June 22.—(INS.)—Near-beer manufacturers today are violators of the prohibition law, Federal Judge Guy L. Fake declared while hearing the case of a brewery in Paterson, N. J., which asked enforcement agents stationed there after a raid in which real beer was found be withdrawn.

The Judge explained the near-beer permit of the brewery appeared illegal, since it authorized brewing of beer of high alcoholic content which later is reduced to near-beer.

CLEAN—WHITE—PURE—

Even the package invites you

INVITING is the word . . . Chesterfield's attractive white package is certainly the proper introduction to the cigarettes inside it. For it suggests right off . . . they're pure.

Examine the paper Chesterfields are rolled in. It's white . . . and pure. Now light up . . . You'll notice there's neither taste nor odor of burning paper. You get the full flavor of fine ripe tobaccos.

To make sure of purity . . . every ingredient and every method used in making Chesterfields . . . is checked by a staff of scientists.

You always open that clean white package with confidence. It reminds you of the purity back of that satisfying taste. And remember, they're milder too!

CAFE GUNMAN HOLDS UP GIRL

Threatening to shoot if she made outcry, a lone robber early today held up Ruth Lockhart, 24, of 1304 Diana street, Spring Hill, waitress in the Vellis restaurant, 612 East Ohio street, and escaped with $60.

Miss Lockhart told police the man entered the restaurant and asked for a drink of water. While he was drinking, Miss Lockhart said, she turned away. When she looked again the robber was tampering with the cash register. She added:

"As I turned the man pointed a gun at me and told me to keep quiet. When he had opened the cash register he backed out of the restaurant telling me, 'I'll shoot if you call the cops.'"

A woman customer, Bert Devere, of 833 Peralta street, and Gus Dessos, manager, were in the restaurant at the time, but unaware of the holdup.

5 HIGH SCHOOLS GRADUATE 735

Five high schools last night awarded diplomas to 735 seniors and 109 students of short business courses.

The nineteenth annual commencement exercises of Peabody High were held in Memorial Hall. Diplomas were awarded 263 seniors. The fourteenth annual commencement exercises of South High School were held in the school, where 218 seniors received diplomas.

George Westinghouse High School graduated 97 seniors, and South Hills High, 66.

The Rev. William F. Galvin, of St. Bernard's Catholic Church, was commencement speaker at Mt. Lebanon High School last night at which diplomas were given 91 students.

SCAN NEW SLOT MACHINES

Pittsburgh's police heads today were trying to determine whether a new racket had invaded their precincts.

It's a slot machine. You deposit your nickel, then aim a dozen small balls at various scored holes.

Police Inspectors James N. Hoey and Albert Beebe told Public Safety Director James M. Clark they thought the machines were gambling devices.

But a downtown restaurant proprietor, Vernon Barnes, insisted they weren't. Barnes told Clark his two machines had been ordered "out" by Beebe. Barnes said he got his machines from Abe Shiner.

He also told about a threat. He said two strangers warned him he wasn't getting his machines from the right place. They offered substitutes.

Hundreds of the machines have been installed in drug stores, restaurants and other places. Director Clark intends to ask the Law Department for advice.

Plum Township Man Wills $35,000 Estate

Elizabeth H. Keeney, Sewickley, was left a life estate in the $35,000 estate of her husband, R. M. Keeney, with remainder to their children, John H. and Elizabeth A. Keeney. The $20,000 estate of Albert L. Cromlich, of Duquesne, was left to his wife, Harriet H. Cromlich.

MARLIN E. HILTY

TEAR GAS ROUTS ASSAILANT

Following a battle with police, in which he was driven from his hut in East Kensington by tear gas, John Schultz, 300-pound miner, was held for court today, charged with felonious shooting and disorderly conduct.

The battle was staged early today, after Schultz, police say, fired several shots from his bedroom window. Neighbors summoned New Kensington police, and when Anthony Bordonaro and William McCullin arrived, Schultz is said to have fired at them. Patrolmen Leo Kantorski and John McIntyre reinforced the pair. Schultz was driven from his home by tear gas. As he ran, he was captured.

Motorcycle Injures Man in Homestead

A man tentatively identified as Frank Handgs, of 338 Eighth avenue, Homestead, was in a critical condition in Homestead Hospital today with injuries suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle driven, police said, by William Ripple, 22, of 149 Flowers avenue, Hazelwood, in Eighth avenue, Homestead, last night.

Clyde Collins, 18, of 2 Tecumseh street, Hazelwood, a passenger on the motorcycle, suffered minor injuries when he was thrown from the machine. Police, who identified Handgs by a driver's license, reported him unknown at the Eighth avenue address.

World War Veterans Sues U. S. for $4,657

Jacob L. Freed, of Grand Valley, Pa., World War veteran, filed a suit against the government in Federal Court, in which he seeks to collect $4,657.50 on a $5,000 ar risk insurance policy, by claiming permanent disability when discharged from military service on December 22, 1918. The condition was due, he alleged, to tuberculosis and other disease that developed while he was in service.

Air Line Granted Service Permission

Permission was granted to Aircraft and Airways of America, Inc., to transport passengers and merchandise on call, by the Public Service Commission, at Harrisburg. A similar certificate held by Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, Inc., was recently cancelled.

U. S. Business Feels Need Of a Megaphone

By B. C. FORBES

BUSINESS WANTS a national megaphone. It wants to be able to speak with united voice. It wants to express itself authoritatively, so authoritatively that it will be listened to by the public, politicians, regulators.

Business feels the need for a compact body of elder business statesmen, a body embracing the country's best practical brains, a body enjoying the utmost respect, a body capable of planning and piloting, of earning the confidence not only of business, industry and finance, but of the public and unprejudiced legislators.

B. C. Forbes

ORIGINALLY IT was hoped that the United States Chamber of Commerce would win universal recognition as the mouthpiece of American business and industry, that it would build up an enviable reputation by contributing conspicuously valuable leadership, especially in co-operating harmoniously, effectively, usefully with lawmakers sincerely seeking to develop America's commercial, industrial and financial strength.

Unfortunately, such hopes have not been fulfilled. Its main activity has taken the form of selling a periodical in competition with unsubsidized business. Its relations with the administration have not borne the fruit optimistically anticipated. Occasionally it has indulged in the modern mania for compiling questionnaires, but the results rarely have attracted more than passing notice.

In the direction of planning and piloting, it has gotten nowhere. It is now recognized that it is far too unwieldy an organization to function promptly or fruitfully. It has failed to make the desired impress upon the public, upon lawmakers conscientiously seeking authoritative enlightenment upon business itself.

OF LOBBYISTS representing—often stealthily—special interests, there is a plethora, a plague. This was recently unpleasantly revealed when taxes were under consideration at Washington. A sensible, thinly-spread, widely-distributed manufacturers' sales tax might have been promptly passed but for the short-sighted objections interposed by lobbyists, action which first caused delay, then dissension, then demoralization, then rebellion, inflicting billions and billions of losses upon investors, upon producers of farm products, upon all classes of business and all classes of employes.

HAD THERE been in America the right kind of organization of elder business statesmen, it would have been in a position to speak for business as a whole. Doubtless, it would have readily recognized the wisdom of broadening the taxation base instead of singling out certain industries, commodities and merchandise for discriminatory burdens.

Lobbyists concerned only with scheming for advantages for those hiring them, presumably would have been openly and uncompromisingly opposed by the broad-gauged, far-seeing business statesmen representing, not any clique, but the well-being of the whole business world.

PERHAPS A combined gathering of the members of all the industrial-banking committees recently inspired by the Federal Reserve might appropriately give birth to a movement having as its objective the formation of a truly representative economic council comprising the very flower of America's men of affairs.

Owen D. Young, as head of the committee in the New York Federal Reserve district, could fittingly take the initiative.

HIT-OR-MISS methods—planlessness—can miss more often than hit.

Mexico Bond Fund Payment Delayed

NEW YORK, June 22.—The international committee of bankers on Mexico announces that pending settlement of various conflicting claims and approval of accounts of the committee by a court, it has delayed making a distribution of funds which it has on hand to holders of defaulted Mexican bonds who have deposited their securities with the committee.

Buffington Leaves Steel Corporation

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP.)—The United States Steel Corporation announced that Eugene J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel Company for the past 34 years, would retire on July 1, under the corporation's pension plan. George G. Thorp, vice president of Illinois Steel, is expected to succeed him.

Seeks Foreclosure On Richfield Oil

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The trustee for Richfield Oil Company 6 per cent bonds has petitioned the court for leave to intervene and file a bill for foreclosure of Richfield properties securing the bonds. The trustee acted on request of bondholders' committee.

POWER UPTURN MAY HERALD RECOVERY

Electricity Consumption Was One of Few Portents Signaling Crash in 1929

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Electric output during the week ended June 18 totaled 1,441,532,000 kwh., a decrease of 10½ per cent from the 1,609,931,000 kwh. in the same week in 1931, according to the National Electric Light Association. In the preceding week, output was down 11½ per cent.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—The business barometer of electric power production, which Gen. Dawes recently cited as a hopeful omen, was one way of very few which gave an inkling of impending trouble preceding the 1929 collapse.

Public utility statisticians recalled that in September and October, 1929, the weekly readings of this barometer showed unusual symptoms of stormy weather immediately ahead.

In the second half of September, 1929, power production receded sharply. It rallied again in the first week of October, but again wilted. This was distinctly contrary to usual seasonal trend. Ordinarily, September and October are months of steadily rising production.

JUNE OUTPUT GAINS

While these students of power statistics are not fully prepared to indorse the hopeful forecast of Dawes, they nevertheless find a reassuring basis for encouragement.

Compared with the first week of May, which ordinarily marks the low point of power production for the year, the figures for the week ended June 11 show an increase of 0.3 per cent. For the same period last year there was a decrease of 0.9 per cent. In 1930, there was a gain of 0.4 per cent; in 1929—the banner business year—it was up 0.7 per cent and in 1928, when the boom period was attaining its greatest velocity, the gain was 2.8 per cent.

SUPPORTS DAWES' VIEW

Production figures for the full month of May this year registered a weekly average of 1,431,000,000 kilowatt hours against output of 1,435,000,000 during the week ended June 11. In 1931, May production averaged 1,635,000,000 kilowatt hours weekly against the June 11 figures of 1,621,000,000. In 1930, the figures were 1,697,000,000 against 1,706,000,000; in 1929, 1,682,000,000 against 1,699,000,000, and in 1928, 1,440,000,000 against 1,480,000,000.

While statisticians admit that the present upturn may represent only a passing phase, they are inclined to share Gen. Dawes' hopefulness. Some of them place considerable stress on reports from the electrical industry that recent gains have been due largely to increased demand from small manufacturers.

It was the evidence that smaller business men were becoming more active which the former president of the Reconstruction Corporation especially emphasized in his recent prognostication.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22.—The bond market held to a quiet and comparatively steady course today with fractional price changes in the majority. Government 7s and 5½s, after several days' buoyancy, turned heavy. The United States government list maintained a fairly firm position, small fractional losses and gains being about even.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Stiffen — Local Stocks Quiet

STOCK MARKET TURNS FIRM AFTER SLIP

Figures on Carloadings And Power Production Help Street Sentiment

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—The stock market braced itself after a further slip in the first hour today, but showed scant inclination to recover.

Electric power production, and the movement of revenue freight as reported by some individual trunklines for last week, were mildly favorable, and tended to counterbalance such adverse developments as further shrinkage in steel output, dividend cuts and uncertainties, and indications that Congress would be unable to finish this week.

American Can slumped 2 points to a new low, then recovered partially. American Telephone and Allied Chemical sagged more than a point, the former to a new bottom, before support appeared. United States Steel preferred went under 60 with a 2-point sag to the lowest since 1904. The common sagged a fraction to within a shade of its recent low. Santa Fe also got down 2 before recovering partially, and issues off a point or so included Union Pacific, Borden, Eastman, American Tobacco "B" and McKeesport. As the list stiffened, a few issues traded about a point over the previous close, including Public Service of New Jersey, Case and B-M-T.

The slight improvement in electric power production in the past two weeks, inasmuch as these figures are regarded as one of the more sensitive of business barometers, has provided some encouragement. The situation has been somewhat obscured, however, by the pickup in some lines of business in an effort to move merchandise before the excise taxes became effective yesterday. Power production for the week ended Saturday showed a gain over the preceding week, the first time an upturn has been shown in that period since 1929. It was 10½ per cent under 1931, as against 11½ in the previous week.

While the freight car loadings as reported yesterday for all Class 1 carriers for the week ended June 11, since they failed to recover the loss of the Memorial Day week, were a little disappointing, some of the individual reports for the week ended June 18 show further improvement.

The extreme quiet in steel has caused some uncertainty over preferred dividends. Among common shares, approach of next week's dividend actions on American Can and Allied Chemical may have prompted some selling in those issues, although there has been no definite forecast that present rates will be reduced. American Telephone has reflected further dividend uncertainty. Action is not due until August, and at present levels it is regarded as already discounting a cut in the $9 annual rate. Borden reduced its quarterly dividend to 50 cents from 75. Extreme quiet in such lines as steel—traditionally a prince-and-pauper industry—has not caused so much uncertainty as the moderate decline in earnings of such supposedly depresssion-proof lines as food and electric power.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DIP

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Grain values underwent fresh tumbles early today, and wheat established new low price records for the season. Bearish sentiment as to increased taxes on grain futures transactions continued to pervade the market. Opening unchanged to ¾ off, wheat later showed setbacks all around. Corn started unchanged to ½ down and subsequently showed a general sag.

All deliveries of wheat quickly outdid the season's previous bottom quotations. July contracts, representing the new domestic winter crop now being harvested, were especially weak.

Rallies which followed early downturns in wheat were due in some degree to uneasiness regarding chances of a heat wave in spring crop territory northwest. Corn and oats fluctuated narrowly, following wheat. Provisions were responsive to action of cereals.

JUSTICE OF AWARD OPEN TO QUESTION

THE FEELING OF satisfaction among American fight fans and the helpful effects upon the boxing game generally that ordinarily would have resulted from the return of the world heavyweight championship to this country are lessened not a little by the consensus of ringside opinion indicating that the justice of the decision given to Jack Sharkey over Max Schmeling last night was open to question. A split verdict between the judges, with one of them voting for Schmeling, shows that the doubt as to Sharkey's deserving the award extended even to the officials.

Max Schmeling

That Sharkey was letting the German do the forcing, contenting himself with a counter fight and a left-hand stabbing program, is not to be used as an argument against the former sailor. Sometimes that's good generalship, the system best adapted to combat an opponent's style. But in most other respects, accounts of the fight would indicate that there was an edge for Schmeling on all-around fighting, damage inflicted and condition at the finish, and under the circumstances the title cannot be said to have come back in way to warrant any loud cheering by fair-minded American fans. Much of the credit for sportsmanship that come to this country when the crown was given to a foreigner on a foul two years ago would appear to have been lost last night.

THE VISIT OF the Yankees to Milwaukee for an exhibition game last week revived the old rumor that the St. Louis American League club may one day be shifted to that city. Evidently there is not room for two clubs in St. Louis. The town will not support continuous baseball. The Browns lost $190,000 last year.

The National League claims the right to remain, if one club must move, by reason of having occupied St. Louis long before the American League put a team there in 1902.

OBTAINING THE CONSENT of the American Association to the invasion of its field looms as one possible obstacle, but it is figured the big league powers could make acceptable arrangements.

Being part of a major league circuit would be nothing new to Milwaukee. That city has held membership in both of the present big bodies. It had a club in the National League in 1878, and was in the American in 1901.

OUTSIDERS CONTINUE TO wonder at Pennsylvania's failure to repeal the ancient blue laws which prevent the citizens of this commonwealth from enjoying the Sunday sports long ago legalized in many other states, particularly as Pennsylvania has two major league cities and three major league clubs, with the majority of the residents of those cities evidently favoring Sunday baseball. Among the puzzled ones is Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, who says that politics is something that even a big-show pilot can't figure out. "Why," asks McCarthy, "should somebody residing in the country tell the people residing in the cities how to live. I think this point is well illustrated in the Sunday baseball matter.

Joe McCarthy.

"I HAVE PLAYED Sunday ball in Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Reading," Joe continued, "and yet representatives of territory around there have voted consistently against the legalizing of Sunday baseball so that it could be played by the major leagues.

"The people in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia want Sunday ball," he added, "but can't have it because the representatives of the little towns turn thumb down on the proposition. During the last vote on the matter in the Pennsylvania Legislature, a measure leading up to Sunday ball was defeated by one vote, if my memory serves me correctly. In some sections the voters were watching or playing Sunday games while their representatives voted against the idea as a state-wide proposition."

WHEN THE OFFICIALS of the Brooklyn club decided some time ago to increase the number of 50-cent bleacher seats so that 3,500 fans could be accommodated there instead of merely a few hundreds, the move was viewed generally as a step that would prove popular.

That general opinion has been borne out by results, and the Dodger owners have not lost anything through giving the poorer fans a break. Practically every day the Careys are at home the 50-cent section is filled to its 3,500 capacity.

IN THE 36 previous tournaments for the United States open golf championship to be played for again starting tomorrow, the title was won 29 times by amateurs and seven times by amateurs. Four of the seven amateur victories were scored by Bobby Jones, the others by Francis Ouimet, Jerome Travers and Chick Evans. The winners: 1894, Willie Dunn; 1895, Horace Rawlins; 1896, James Foulis; 1897, Joe Lloyd; 1898, Fred Herd; 1899, Willie Smith; 1900, Harry Vardon; 1901, Willie Anderson; 1902, Laurence Auchterloine; 1903-04-05, Willie Anderson; 1906, Alex Smith; 1907, Alex Ross; 1908, Fred McLeod; 1909, Fred Sargent; 1910, Alex Smith; 1911-12, J. J. McDermott; 1913, Francis Ouimet; 1914, Walter Hagen; 1915, J. D. Travers; 1916, Chick Evans; 1917-18, no tourneys; 1919, Walter Hagen; 1920, Ted Ray; 1921, Jim Barnes; 1922, Gene Sarazen; 1923, Bobby Jones; 1924, Cyril Walker; 1925, Willie Facfarlane; 1926, Bobby Jones; 1927, Tommy Armour; 1928, Johnny Farrell; 1929-30, Bobby Jones; 1931, Billy Burke.

COMES A QUERY from J. R. D., of East Liberty, who says conflicting reports on the subject led him to ask whether it was Bill McKechnie or John McGraw who saved Pitcher Steve Swetonic to the Pirates by refusing to waive on him when the Buc management planned to send Swetonic to the minors in a deal last winter.

It was neither McKechnie nor McGraw. Brooklyn sources have revealed it was Max Carey. McKechnie and McGraw waived on Swetonic not only once, but twice. The first time all clubs waived, but the Pittsburgh club allowed the time limit to expire without making a deal. On the second request all waived except Brooklyn.

That the proposal to pick the American Olympic team without final tryouts would not work out smoothly in all cases becomes evident when, at the suggestion of Dean Cromwell, veteran track coach, you look at the pole vaulters.

There are so many star performers in that field, men of almost equal merit representing various parts of the country, that any attempt to select the best without a competitive test would be as unsafe as it would be unfair.

Bill Graber

AT YALE ALONE, Ted Lee has vaulted 13 feet, 10⅝ inches, and Keith Brown 13-10. George Pool, of California, and Bill Miller, of Stanford, also have done 13-10, while Bryce Beecher, of Indiana, and Wonsowitz, of Ohio State, have made 13-8. And that's not mentioning Lee Barnes, Bill Graber and Fred Sturdy, each of whom has beaten 14 feer by a fraction at one time or another. Trying to pick the best out of that bunch without tryouts would be a hopeless undertaking. The vault promises to be one of the most closely contested events in the Olympics, and there is a chance that somebody may beat Barnes' record of 14 feet 1½ inches.

GOB PRAISES PUNCHING OF GERMAN FOE

By JACK SHARKEY,
New Heavyweight Champion of the World.

NEW YORK, June 22.—I am the happiest man in the world. In my own happiness, I wish to pay tribute to Max Schmeling. He fought a great battle, and is the greatest man I have ever met in the ring. As a puncher, Schmeling is even superior to Jack Dempsey. I should know, I stopped both their punches.

WON WITH ABILITY

It was a case of where my superior experience and boxing ability enabled me to offset Schmeling's youth, aggressiveness and terrific punching power.

I fought according to plan. I cut Max down in the early stages of the bout, coasted along a bit during the middle of the contest and then made a fast finish in which I cut loose with everything I had in the fighting line.

I'll admit I was more than a bit concerned when my left eye started to puff up in the eleventh round. The condition of the eye became worse in the twelfth session, but at no time was my vision affected.

EXPLAINS STRATEGY

Instead of pulling away when he cut loose with his right, I would draw back and counter with my own right to the head. This style of attack had much to do with taking the fire out of the German's right hand attack.

The winning of the heavyweight championship of the world was the height of my ambition as a boxer.

Now, I'm going home to Boston with Mrs. Sharkey to make whoopee with my three youngsters. You know I promised Jack, Jr., I would bring back the title to him. Gosh! I'm tickled I made good.

TAR'S VICTORY OVER TEUTON QUESTIONED

radio from the ringside immediately after the bout, and since then the statement that he knew Sharkey would get the decision of Referee Gunboat Smith if he were on his feet at the finish, Jacobs may be summoned to appear before the boxing commission to speak his piece officially.

FANS STUNNED

The decision almost stunned into silence a near-capacity crowd of 70,000 which viewed the 15-round bout in the new Madison Square Garden Bowl in Long Island City. When Schmeling's admirers got over their surprise, they roundly booed the verdict. Others, who thought Sharkey won, cheered lustily.

Some of the fans showed their dissatisfaction over the decision by throwing bottles during a bout held after the championship event.

A poll of newspaper opinion showed a big majority convinced Schmeling should have received the decision and kept his title. Twenty-three out of 25 writers, in an Associated Press roundup, showed a consensus of eight rounds for Schmeling, six for Sharkey and one even. There were several writers at the ringside.

The disagreement with the official verdict was the sharpest in any title fight in years.

When the fight ended, Sharkey's left eye was virtually closed and he appeared to be tired. He seemed surprised when Joe Humphries, the veteran announcer bawled:

"The winner, and new champion—Jack Sharkey!"

Newspapermen at the ringside were split wide open regarding the merit of the decision. Some saw it this way, some that. To Sharkey and his manager, the corpulent Johnny Buckley, the verdict was eminently fair. But Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, termed it an "outrage" and "a disgrace to boxing."

CALLS IT ROBBERY

"Robbery, downright robbery."

That was Jacobs' cry in Schmeling's dressing room immediately after the fight. He went on:

"They couldn't have taken two guns and stuck us up and have done a better job of it."

Schmeling, as he stood beneath the showers, was almost speechless. Tears glistened in his eyes. Jacobs cried openly in despair and indignation.

The decision was the result of a three-cornered vote. The referee, Gunboat Smith, gave the verdict to Sharkey. So did George Kelly, one of the two judges. The other judge, Charley Mathison, gave the decision to Schmeling.

It was a singularly undramatic fight. There were no knockdowns.

It was a boxing match, rather than a prize fight. The really earnest fighting was withheld until the final round, which Sharkey won. The Bostonian employed a left jab to good effect throughout the bout, but Schmeling did all the leading. Not once in the 15 rounds did the German take a backward step. He peppered Sharkey's face with lefts and rights and had the ex-sailor's left eye almost closed by the eleventh round.

Personally, I thought Schmeling won. My score sheet gave him seven rounds, Sharkey five and three were even.

MAX FRESH AT FINISH

Sharkey, coming into the ring weighing 205 pounds, heavier than he ever weighed in an important bout, looked fat around the middle. The German, at 188 pounds, was below his usual ringtime weight, but he seemed strong throughout. He was fresh at the finish.

When the gong rang ending the bout and before the decision was announced, Sharkey brushed aside one of his handlers who tried to stop him and went to Schmeling's corner and shook hands with him. Many construed this gesture as a virtual admisison by Sharkey that he had lost. Schmeling patted Sharkey in what appeared to be a consoling manner.

Schmeling was dumbfounded when the decision was announced. He stood there in the ring, in his black and white bathrobe, as if in a daze. He was finally led away while admirers of Sharkey jumped into the ring and showered the new champion with congratulations.

SHARKEY PRAISES FOE

Afterwards, in his dressing room, Sharkey said:

"I'm the happiest man in the world. I'm going home to Boston with the championship. Gee, it feels great. But I want to hand it to Schmeling. He's a great fighter—a better puncher, in my opinion, then Jack Dempsey."

Manager Jacobs blamed Referee Smith for the decision against Schmeling. He called attention to a newspaper interview he gave a week ago saying if a certain official were named it would mean

PIRATES HOME TOMORROW

BROOKLYN, June 22.—Looking forward with much pleasure to a long stay on Forbes Field, the Pirates will hit the homeward trail tonight. The Gibsonians will be idle tomorrow, but on the following day they will begin a long list of battles with many doubleheaders interspersed in their playing dates.

The Buccos will buckle into Dan Howley's Reds in a single game on Friday afternoon. On Saturday the two clubs will stage a bargain attraction, this to be followed by another duel fight with the locale changed to Redland Field in Cincinnati. Hence the two teams will run off four games in two days. On top of the Sunday doubleheader the Reds and Buccos will wind up their scrapping with a single game in Howley town.

Home runs by Joe Stripp, Fred Heimach and Danny Taylor scuttled the Pirates' ship yesterday in the Flatbush. The Dodgers saw the Buccos jump off to a two-run lead in the first round, but Heimach crashed a two-run homer in the second inning that put his club in front. Stripp having hit for the full distance in the first round. The score was 9-2.

Bill Swift started against Heimach, but the Kansas City graduate retired at the conclusion of the second round. Glenn Spencer worked a two-inning trick and was scored upon twice before making way for a pinch-hitter, Leon Chagnon was the third Pirate pitcher for the day. The French-Canadian was highly impressive in spots, but the home batters eventually solved him. They added three in the seventh and Taylor clouted a homer in the eighth. Heimach was very effective after the first inning.

FINNS CLEAR NURMI

HELSINGFORS, June 22.—(INS.)—The Finnish Olympic committee today definitely decided to permit Paavo Nurmi to participate in the marathon race during the Los Angeles Olympiad. Hope was expressed that the International Sports Council, meeting at Los Angeles just prior to the Olympics, will reverse the ban imposed on Nurmi's participation on grounds of professionalism.

Prize Winners Announced In Ripley Contest

"Believe it or not," a grain of rice is worth a brand new automobile and Greater Pittsburgh's most unusual penman—Ernest L. Blystone, of Ardara, near Irwin, is able to prove it.

Blystone is the winner of second prize in the nationwide contest conducted by Robert E. Ripley, author of "Believe It Or Not," which appears daily in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Blystone broke his own record for rice-writing by inscribing 2,860 letters on one side of a tiny grain of rice. Over and over again, the microscopic writing consists of the word "coin" inscribed 715 times.

CHOOSES HIS PRIZE

As second prize winner, Blystone had his choice of all the prizes after the first prize winner had chosen. Blystone scorned travel. Second and third prizes were trips—one to Havana and one to Canada. Said he:

He chose the automobile, a Rockne de luxe sedan, which was presented to him yesterday by E. J. King, sales manager for the Baehr Brothers agency, McKeesport.

"Coin" is the word Blystone wrote to win the prize and coin, he says, is what he needs most now. He was asked:

"What are you going to do with your new car—take a nice long vacation trip?"

He replied:

"No, sir—I've traveled enough. I need a truck for my business and I'm going to sell it or trade it."

PRIZE WINNERS

The remaining prize winners in the major list and the "Believe It Or Nots" that won the prizes for them are as follows:

The Kentucky Colonel, Col. L. S. Powers, of Hawesville, Ky., is going to take the free trip for two to Montreal and through the province of Quebec with the man, who, he claims, is the greatest B. I. O. N. in America. He is the Rev. Mark L. Voyles, of Little Rock, Ark., who can give the chapter and verse number of any scriptural quotation read to him.

W. W. Pitman, city marshal of Wharton, Tex., who won the trip to Cuba and Havana with his account of a duel with a Mexican bad man in which he disabled his opponent by shooting a bullet down the barrel of his gun.

A. E. Hump, of St. Louis, paralysis victim, whose achievement in founding and operating a successful business from his bed won the RCA-Victor radio-phonograph combination for Andrew Neaumann, of Chicago, who submitted the fact.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Lancaster, of South Whitely, Ind., who founded the family group in which no death has occurred for 83 years. The fact won a set of 1881 Rogers' triple plate silver for one of their descendants, Robert F. Lancaster.

SELECTS TELEVISION

Edward W. Pulick, Long Island, N. Y., was struck by lightning in 1929. Before horrified witnesses a straw hat burst into flames as it was struck from his head. His hair, even his eyebrows, were singed, but he was otherwise unharmed. He submitted proof, was named a winner, and he chose the Jenkins Radiovisor television set.

Donald Johnson, of Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, won with a 26-word poem with the initials of the words in alphabetical order from A to Z which still has rhythm and sense when written backwards from Z to A. The form is also still a poem when read in alternating lines. Mr. Johnson chose the Encyclopaedia Britannica as his prize.

Gerald Spencer, of Duluth, Minn., and Dr. Herbert D. McKay, of Minneapolis, tied on the B. I. O. N. telling about a blind man

By JOE JACOBS
Manager of Max Schmeling

NEW YORK, June 22.—Well, the works were in, just as I feared, and Max Schmeling was deprived of his title by a decision that smelled to heaven.

He was the victim of a robbery that was made possible by the New York Boxing Commission in their appointment of officials. I knew it was coming just as soon as Gunboat Smith got into the ring.

PROTESTS FUTILE

I tried to stop it, but what could I do? I protested long ago and asked that a list of referees satisfactory to both sides be submitted and a selection made from that list. But in the face of this the one man prejudicial to Schmeling's interests was picked.

Schmeling was the aggressor all the way. He chased Sharkey from pillar to post, won a big majority of the rounds by his hard, clean hitting, stood for low punches, closed Sharkey's eye and was giivng him a good licking in the last three rounds.

Max got better as he went along. It's too bad the distance wasn't 20 rounds. Sharkey never would have gone that far.

Charley Mathieson is recognized as an expert boxing judge. He wasn't fooled by Sharkey's tactics and voted for Schmeling.

SCORES SHARKEY

The new champion of the world by grace of the New York Boxing Commission was a sad spectacle in the last round. He tin-canned it to escape a knockout, and was he glad when the bell rang! I don't believe he thought he had won then. He stood in his corner like a loser and he must have been surprised when the news was broken to him.

Schmeling will keep right on fighting and we hope to get Sharkey back again.

FORMER CHAMP SURPRISED AT DECISION

By GENE TUNNEY,

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World.

(Written Expressly for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, June 22.—Nobody begrundges Jack Sharkey the championship, but many would rather have seen him win it in a different manner.

Frankly, my scoring gave Schmeling a comfortable decision.

In a way I am pleased to see Sharkey the champion. He at last has attained the fame he has been close to for five years.

His is the first heavyweight championship won by an entirely defensive method. He backed about the ring from beginning to end.

THOUGHT TAR SURPRISED

Sharkey seemed to have the defeatist attitude throughout. And I am sure he was as much surprised to win the decision as Schmeling was to lose it. However, many ringsiders thought the verdict fair.

Of course, it is a difficult thing to get a crowd to agree 100 per cent on any verdict that is not definitely onesided.

The most commendable part of Sharkey's work was the way in which he remained calm throughout.

It is unfortunate that Jack is not about five years younger. He would have a longer reign as champion and a chance to reach the attendant rewards. Jack looked very old; in fact he was listless.

Analyzing the fight round by round, I found in the first round an interesting contrast between the confident Schmeling and the cool, but obviously respectful American contender. My scorecard shows that Schmeling shaded Sharkey in the first round.

In the second round Sharkey seemed to find himself and looked a little better. I scored this session as even. In the third round Schmeling did most of the forcing. Schmeling's round by a shade.

Round four found Schmeling continuing to force the fighting; at this point it seemed obvious to me that Sharkey was developing the defeatist attitude to which I referred earlier. It was Schmeling's round. Round five found an improvement in Sharkey's morale. He won this session.

SHARKEY WINS SIXTH

Sharkey's gain in confidence was marked in the sixth round. He was boxing more effectively than at any point so far in the fight. It was Sharkey's round by a slight margin.

Round seven was about even. With the opening of round eight, Schmeling again took the lead.

MAX'S BLOWS PUNISHING

In round 13, Sharkey was nearly floored by a terrific right to the body followed by a left hook to the jaw. Sharkey rallied to even the round. In round 14 Schmeling again backed Sharkey all around the ring, although no damage was done. Schmeling's forcing tactics gave him the round by a slim margin.

The Homestead Aces drove another nail to the first-half West Penn League flag last evening when Fertig's classy Steelworkers defeated the Carrick Eagles, 2 to 1, at Carrick High School Field. Osamonga twirled a fine game. When the game ended, Carrick had the tying run on third, and the winning run on first.

Three games will be played in the City League this evening. The best contest of the card should be staged at Dormont, where the J. L. Thomas nine, of Bloomfield, meets the defending champions.

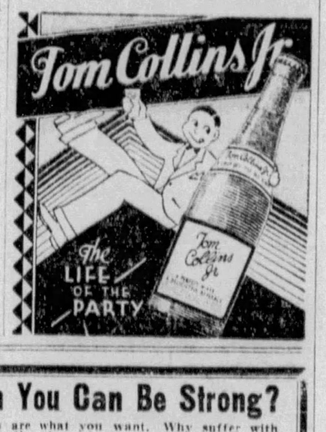
In the City League last evening, the North Siders defeated Reliance Life, 6 to 3, and Homewood tied the Geislers, 3-3.

The Homestead Grays refused to go through with a game against the J. L. Thomas club at Dean Field last evening. The crowd was large, but the collection small, and the Grays withdrew.



VERDICT SHOCK TO CORBETT

By JAMES J. CORBETT

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—Nothing ever amazed me more than to find that Jack Sharkey had been given the decision over Max Schmeling in their 15-round bout last night.

Based upon all the rules of judging boxing contests, I would say that Schmeling won by a million miles.

Schmeling was the aggressor from beginning to end. He carried the fight to Sharkey all the way. He landed the cleanest punches and the heaviest. He caught many of Sharkey's left jabs on his gloves and dodged back from others.

The German turned back every vicious charge that the sailor made—except in the final round. And, even in that one, although Sharkey won it, Schmeling was wildly eager to trade punch for punch at long range or short range or anywhere that Sharkey wanted to mix it.

Schmeling made the fight. I do not recall in all the years that I have been identified with the ring any battle in which one man so greatly outclassed the other as Schmeling outclassed Sharkey. And when they gave the decision and the title to Sharkey it took me a long time to force myself into the conclusion that this was something real—not a fantastic dream.

MAN TO MAN

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

IN its recent confession the Gillette Safety Razor Company told you that, under the stress of introducing a new razor and blade, uniformity had suffered; and told you how our efforts to correct the trouble had resulted in the development of a far superior product.

Several readers have asked us how we can make the bold, positive statement that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades we have ever produced. This is a fair question, and here is our reply: A marvelous new testing machine, recently developed, scientifically proves that these blades have never before been approached in keenness.

We cannot discuss the nature or details of this machine because it is being patented. But we can tell you that it measures microscopic dimensions with unfailing accuracy — revealing with mathematic exactness, actual degrees of razor-blade sharpness. So when we state that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest we have ever made we are basing our assertion upon fact. We know we are right and can prove it.

Further than this—everyone knows that a razor blade must be able to bend without cracking when tightened in the holder. This requires steel of a certain temper not suitable for a keen cutting edge. The problem is to permit flexing and yet have a hard edge that can be ground and stropped for proper shaving performance. Gillette has achieved the solution of this problem in the manufacture of its slotted blades.* These blades are made by a special tempering process that makes the edges exceptionally hard, while the center, of a different temper, flexes easily.

We urge you to try today's Gillette blades—the regular blade in the familiar green package or the BLUE SUPER-BLADE in its blue package, Cellophane wrapped. Do so without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades you have ever used, return the package and your dealer will refund your money.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package, Cellophane wrapped.

U. S. NET STARS TRIUMPH

SHIELDS, VAN RYN, ALLISON VICTORS

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22.—(AP.)—John Van Ryn, Frank Shields and Wilmer Allison, members of the United States Davis Cup team, today followed Ellsworth Vines, Gregory Mangin and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., into the third round of the Wimbledon tennis championships with clean-cut victories over their opponents.

The three American stars, who remained in the United States to win the interzone final from Brazil and arrived in London only Monday, had a comparatively easy time in catching up with the field.

Van Ryn defeated J. D. P. Wheatley, little-known English player, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5; Allison won from T. Tloczynski, of Poland, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2, and Shields disposed of Taylor, young North of England player, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

Helen Jacobs, America's second ranking woman player, advanced to the third round of women's singles with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Phyllis Covell, of England; Sarah Palfrey, another member of the American Wightman cup team, won from Mrs. E. M. Dearman, of England, in a hard-fought match, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., defeated Dorothy Dyson, of England, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated Miss W. M. C. Bower, of England, 6-1, 6-0, to advance to the third round.

Kid Chocolate, world junior-lightweight champion, and Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, go to it tonight in their battle in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, postponed from Monday night, when a deluge descended upon the arena. The Sharkey-Schmeling fight broadcast of last night forced the club to hold over the show an extra day.

Both Chocolate and Farr, as well as the preliminary boxers, went back into the gymnasium yesterday and loosened up to keep on edge for tonight's biffing. All will weigh in again at the Bowl this afternoon.

Interest in the battle has increased during the postponement, what with the heavyweight championship fight talk in the air to make the public boxing-conscious, and the largest crowd of the outdoor season here thus far is expected to sit in on the proceedings.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, meets Pinky Kaufman, of New York, who holds a knockout victory over King Tut, in a special 10-round bout following the windup. In three six-rounders, Tiger Walker, Negro featherweight, of Zanesville, O., boxes Battling Bulahan, Cleveland Filipino; Fritzie Zivic meets Steve Senich and Max (Kingfish) Elling engages Packy McFarland, with the first bout going on at 8:45.

Meanwhile, Lee Sala, Donora middleweight, and Jackie Wilson, Homewood Negro featherweight, wind up their training today for their 10-round battles at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night against Tommy Freeman, former world welterweight champion, and Chico Cisneros. Two six-rounders complete the bill.

A good early entry is reported for the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament to be staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., in its open-air arena on the North Side, June 28-29.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Well, the Republicans have finished their convention business and now, no matter who the Democrats nominate, the Red Sox will land in last place.

Nick Altrock

Say, I got a complaint from a Babe Ruth admirer about my saying Lazzeri was responsible for the Yanks' showing this year. Well, nobody has to rub any silver polish on Babe's crown, but what I said about Tony still goes. At bat he's had a wallop like Mussolini pounding a desk.

And still, before the season started, Tony had an auctioneer's flag fluttering over his head and he couldn't have been surer of the bench if he'd been appointed to the Supreme Court. That's my retraction, Dear Subscriber, and you're welcome.

Sport Vignettes

Said one dub golfer (Bob Reamy by name) to another: "You're a lefthander, aren't you? Well, I ought to beat you because my game's all right." . . . Ouch! . . . They were speaking of paralytic strokes . . . Chimed in Paul Sullivan, our demon tennis expert: "I know a man who had a stroke and it didn't affect him—his name was Bill Tilden." . . . Just so you know who's responsible . . . And Dan Parker tells the story of the Scotchman who saw two baseball teams play 15 scoreless innings and then, when the umpire called the game on account of darkness, went to the box office to get a refund on the ground that he didn't get a run for his money . . . 'Stoo much, for one day.

In winning the heavyweight championship in his battle with Max Schmeling last night, Jack Sharkey demonstrated the fine boxing and fighting qualities with which he generally has been credited . . . It always has been contended that he possessed the ability and class to attain the heights and needed only to get a good fight out of his system to become champion . . . His career has been one of ups and downs; he has confounded the experts more often than any other boxer before the public, and he was only running true to form when he won the disputed decision last night, with a majority of the critics picking him to lose and lambasting the decision after the fight . . . His victory should prove an impetus to boxing, in the long run, for the sport always has flourished best when an American has been in the saddle, since this is the leading boxing nation of the world.

As he reads over the aftermath stories on the fight, Sharkey must be a very puzzled man today. . . In the past he has been ridiculed because of his tendency for losing his head and boxing class and slugging it out on the slightest provocation, to bring about his own downfall. . . Last night, he admittedly fought a safety-first fight all of the way, giving ground and countering in the approved Gene Tunney fashion, calling upon all of his experience and science, and now he finds himself a target for abuse because he didn't rip and snort and rise to dramatic and emotional heights and punch it out with a younger man who, under such circumstances, probably would have batted his head off. . . It's a funny world, and the first century of living in it still is the hardest.—HARRY KECK.

favored to repeat this week, will be interviewed by Paul G. Sullivan, while Harry Keck, sports editor and master of ceremonies, will crossfire with Taylor on the advantages of the various strokes and swimming history in the Pittsburgh district. Miss Marian Salmon will accompany the Seals on the piano.

The program will go on the air at 6:55 o'clock.

Schmeling Rapped By German Paper

BERLIN, June 22.—(INS.)—While the vast majority of the German press expressed the belief today that Max Schmeling received an unfair verdict when his world heavyweight crown was awarded to Jack Sharkey at the end of their 15-round bout in New York last night, one paper, the Woelfuhrblatt, agreed with the decision wholeheartedly.

Under the heading, "A Fair Decision," the paper declared better tactics won for the American and added that the outcome was proof Sharkey should have become the champion in 1930, when he lost to Schmeling on a foul.

The German boxing fans were keenly disappointed over the decision after learning that Max had been the aggressor throughout the bout.

COHEN SHIFTED

NEWARK, June 22. — (AP.) — Andy Cohen, second baseman for the Newark Internationals, has been sent to the Minneapolis team of the American Association, Cohen's place at second base was taken by Jack Saltzgaver, when the latter was sent to Newark on option by the New York Yankees.

Jacobs added:

"I meant Referee Smith when I said that."

Jacobs said he did not intend to protest the decision to the New York Boxing Commission. He said:

"What's the use?—it wouldn't do any good."

He said that Schmeling won hands down, asserting it was "the easiest fight" of the German's career. He added:

"Certainly Schmeling wants a return match, but try and get a return match from Sharkey."

MAX BROKEN-HEARTED

Turning to Schmeling in his ire Jacobs snapped:

"I told you, Max, that you should never have agreed to fight in New York. I knew we'd be robbed."

"He kept running away; I couldn't make him fight. I wasn't hurt at any time. I could easily have gone 15 more rounds. I don't think Sharkey could. But Sharkey is a smart boxer. He is hard to catch."

PECK TO BE LAID TO REST HERE TODAY

By JESS CARVER

The body of Bob Peck, the University of Pittsburgh's famous all-America center of 1916 and 1917, who died suddenly Sunday at Culver, Ind., will be laid to rest today. Funeral services will be held at the Samson funeral home at 3 o'clock.

Arrangements have been made to take care of a large crowd at the services. The Pitt Varsity Letter Club will attend in a body, as well as many of Peck's former associates, fellow students and fraternity brothers at Pitt. Dr. John B. Sutherland, Pitt's head football coach; H. C. Carlson, head basketball mentor; Andy Hastings, former backfield star, all teammates of Peck on the famous Pitt elevens of '15, '16 and '17; Allen Collingwood, student manager of the '14 and '15 elevens; Don Leonard and William Stauffer, S. A. E. fraternity brothers, and Bob Grove will serve as pallbearers.

A group of sorrowing friends stood with bared heads in the Pennsylvania station yesterday as the body arrived here from Culver. Peck died Sunday evening, shortly after he collapsed on the golf links. Heart disease caused his death.

The burial services will be in charge of Dr. Sarber, of New York, former pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church here. Dr. Sarber officiated at Peck's marriage.

Mrs. Peck and her two children, Sara May and Robert Jr., accompanied the body here.

Fight by Rounds

Associated Press.

ROUND ONE

Schmeling dashed into Sharkey, who met him with a short left hook, flush to the jaw. Sharkey boxed coolly away as Max rushed in with a right to the body, standing straight up. Max matched left jabs with the American.

Max landed only one punch to the head as Sharkey dotted his face with a half dozen lefts. Schmeling shot a short right to the head and the crowd roared as Sharkey backed away. Jack jumped in and smashed the German about the body with both hands and then lifted his left sharply to the head. Schmeling boxed neatly but the American flung a hard right to the heart as the bell rang.

ROUND TWO

As Max bulled back, Sharkey drove a right to the body, belted him with two hands to the ropes but was forced to duck as Schmeling whipped a right past his head at the bell.

ROUND THREE

Sharkey missed with a long right and as Schmeling tried to cut loose with both hands, Sharkey wove under the punches. They were both extremely cautious, Sharkey feeling his way with left jabs to the head.

ROUND FOUR

Sharkey came out even more cautiously. He whistled a right high to the champion's temple, but caught a short right to the chin. As they came in close he rabbited at Schmeling's chin while Max beat the American's body with both hands.

Max shot Jack's head back with a left jab. He stopped to rip a left into the German's body, but Max nailed him twice with lefts to the head at close quarters. Another right bounced off Sharkey's chin after he had driven the German to the ropes with a left hook to the head. Sharkey ducked a right, but Max ducked under his left hand and dropped another short right to the American's chin as the bell rang.

ROUND FIVE

There was not a mark on either warrior as a result of the battling. Max flung a short right into Sharkey's head before they went back to jabbing. Twice Sharkey pulled back from the champion's left hand to bury his boxing into Max's body. Boxing beautifully, Sharkey stabbed the German's head, hooked a left to the jaw and a right to the body as Max tore back. Schmeling drove Sharkey to the ropes with his first sustained attack, whipping a volley of lefts and rights to the head and body.

Sharkey sidestepped again, jabbed the champion away and smashed his body with both hands. A right uppercut shook Schmeling but he bounced back to hammer Sharkey's head with both hands as the bell rang.

ROUND SIX

The acme of cautiousness, Sharkey stabbed dispassionately at Schmeling's head. He was boxing like a teacher as he popped Schmeling's head and stepped in with a left hook to the body.

ROUND SEVEN

Attorney Proposes Party and Tom Agrees to Attend With Lynn

CHAPTER XIII.

Dwight looked after him. "Good-looking boy. I've seen him before, haven't I? I don't exactly place him."

Lynn explained as they moved toward the elevators: "Tom Shepard. He's Mr. Norton's private secretary."

"Oh, yes," recalled Dwight in a tone of complete dismissal.

She was annoyed. She was annoyed with herself for being annoyed. What right had David Dwight to take that tone toward Tom—her Tom? On the other hand, why shouldn't he? Tom was, of course, nothing to him. She was somewhat bewildered by her sparkling flare of anger, like a rocket; and by the bleak, blank, commonsensical stick it immediately displayed, burned out, falling to the ground.

They lunched well if not elaborately; and talked a great deal about nothing in particular.

They had reached the salad course and Dwight was lighting a cigaret when Lynn looked up to see a girl whom she knew slightly, through Jennie, slipping between the tables followed by a tall, thin, stooped young man.

"Why, it's Mara Burt," said Lynn to herself, and called out, "Oh, Mara!" and the other girl stopped to smile and wave. With a gesture she indicated to her escort that she preferred a table farther back in the room. They moved on and sat down.

"That's an attractive girl," Dwight commented. "The baby-faced type, but what lovely red hair. Bank employe?"

"No; but she works in the building, in a branch insurance office on the thirtieth floor," Lynn replied. "I haven't seen her for some time."

"I wish I could persuade a pretty girl to look at me as she is looking at her companion," Dwight sighed. "She is certainly making a play for that young man—lucky devil."

EXPLAINS ABOUT TOM

Lynn said abstractedly, "I don't think so. She's married, you know." And Dwight shouted with laughter.

"That's classic. Speaking of young men—and pretty girls—what about this Shepard boy?"

Lynn's eyes fell to the modest diamond on her right hand. He probably knew about her and Tom, now; possibly Sarah had told him. She answered honestly: "We—we can't get married. Not now, that is."

A bald statement. He understood it in all its implications. His eyes did not change; his face was impassive but a little rat of anger sharpened its teeth in his brain. Of course! It would happen. He looked at Lynn with coldness veiled by an impersonal friendly interest. She was not nearly so pretty as he had thought her. And ordinary girl like millions of others. And an ordinary boy who had an average job. Two commonplace people planning a wedding day and a walk-up apartment, dishes and babies, slippers, radio, the movies . . .

He said gently, "You're very young."

"I know it." She looked at him, gray eyes black, the pupils dilated. "And so is he. We—we've left each other free. It's better that way. I want to keep on with my job. I like it awfully." She made a hopeless little gesture with the hand which wore the ring. "Tom won't hear of my marrying him until—until he gets ahead. He doesn't want me to work. So there we are!"

PROPOSES PARTY

Her face was grave. Then she laughed up at Dwight. "Sarah doesn't approve at all," she admitted. "Sarah doesn't believe in marriage; she's all for careers. I don't believe Sarah's ever been in love in all her life!"

Ah, had she not? Dwight knew. His heart tightened. "How old is Tom?"

Lynn told him.

"And you? You told me once. Tell me again." She obeyed. He laughed suddenly, relieved. "Infants!" he mocked.

Twenty-two and twenty-three; not planning to marry yet; tomorrow was another day. How had he ever thought her ordinary, even for a moment; how had he ever fancied her like anyone else in the world? She was unique.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty, is ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust Company. She loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the vice presidents, but will not marry him, feeling they both must make their careers first. Then Lynn meets David Dwight, a prominent lawyer, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years ago he had been Sarah's fiance. When he married a woman of wealth and position, Sarah was broken-hearted, but she finally found contentment in her work. Dwight is attracted to Lynn and invites her and Sarah to his apartment for dinner. Lynn's roommate, Jennie Le Grande, a model, warns her that Dwight is dangerous. Later Dwight meets Lynn and asks her to lunch just as Tom appears.

Now Go On

Competition is the life of several trades.

He said happily, "Never mind Sarah. Suppose you bring Tom and that model girl with whom you live—Joan? Betty?"

"Jennie," Lynn corrected, laughing.

"Jennie, then. Bring her and Tom to the house. We'll throw a party—for you. A young party—not, perhaps, altogether in years. Whom would you like to meet? Stage or motion-picture folk, artists, writers? Or just people?"

Her eyes danced. She said, "Anyone you say. It will be fun."

"We'll make it so. We'll dispense with Sarah, I think. She's not as young as we are," he added cruelly. "Yes, we'll dispense with her. That is, if you don't mind. We're old enough friends by now, are we not, to get along without the tertium quid?"

"The what?"

"Sarah," he said, smiling, "and besides, that was a cock-eyed allusion."

A WORKING WIFE

He set the date; and later, paying the check, murmured: "You'll telephone me if the evening's all right?"

"Of course it will be," she told him happily.

Leaving, she looked back at Mara Burt and her companion, so engrossed in each other. She had met Mara in the rest room, with Jennie. Jennie had given her Mara's history with characteristic brevity: "Married, see, and Bill's out of a job. So she has to hold hers. She generally holds it by her knees."

"Do you mean on her knees?"

"No, by 'em. As far as I can make out she's only a fair typist and won't get much further. But the men like her. See?"

Lynn had been to Mara's apartment once or twice and had met Bill, a sulky young man, terribly aware that it was Mara's earnings and not his own which were paying rent and grocery bills. Lynn had come away feeling sorry for them both.

That evening while they were dressing to go out, she spoke to Jennie of her encounter with Mara. Jennie nodded.

"Sure. Was it a tall guy, sort of tubercular-looking?" And at Lynn's nod, she went on, "That's her boss' nephew, Frank Houghton. She told me about him. He's been out in Arizona with his wife and kids, and now he's back working for his uncle. Mara says his wife doesn't understand him." Jennie laughed. "That's what they all say. He's been giving her a rush. His wife writes or something, and sticks around home—they live in Flushing—and looks after the kids."

SORRY FOR GIRL

"She must be crazy!" said Lynn.

"Who, the wife? Oh, you mean Mara. Crazy like a trained seal. She knows darned well she wouldn't get anywhere in business without the old S. A. and she doesn't give a whoop how she holds her job as long as she holds it. I don't mean she'd go very far. She hasn't the courage," Jennie explained scornfully. "Bill's a sorehead, of course, but I don't blame him. It isn't so keen for him hanging around the apartment waiting for her to come home with the weekly wage."

But all men who marry girls who keep on working don't take that attitude, Lynn thought. Yet she wondered, and after a moment, fluffing powder on her nose, inquired: "But suppose she really likes this Houghton?"

"Not she. She likes his pull, that's all. Besides, what's it to us if she falls by the wayside?" inquired Jennie inelegantly.

Nothing, Lynn supposed. But she liked Mara Burt, and wished that she could be warned. For it was a losing game she was playing. Jennie would laugh at that. Sarah, if consulted, would remark merely, "Apparently the girl has no ambition, no intelligence; she is just ten mechanical fingers and for the rest—conscious sex appeal." Tom, who had met Mara and her husband, would shrug.

She thought, I wonder what David Dwight would say. Some day she'd ask him what he thought, as a purely hypothetical case.

Jennie was talking about Dwight's party. She was enchanted. She planned to put some money in a little number. "You know, Lynn, the one I told you about—alternate white and black ruffles, simple, swell, stunning. Hope he's asked a lot of old men with stacks of money, who have reached the stage where they're satisfied to hold your hand!"

"What a terrible prospect!"

"You're young yet," said Jennie.

The party that evening, with Tom, was a Dutch-treat affair at an unfashionable speakeasy. Slim was there, and some of the U. B. C. men. Slim took Jennie; there were other girls. A nice, happy-go-lucky crowd, talking shop between drinks, eats and dances.

Tom was happy. "Gee, you look sweet," he told Lynn. "Like strawberry ice cream. I could eat you up!"

She wore the dusky pink dress. Strawberry ice cream—and a rose-quartz pagoda! She thought wistfully that it was a pity that a person as young and dear, as thrilling and beloved as Tom could not shape his voice into quaint conceits and phrases—as could, say, a man like David Dwight.

Guileful girl, she waited to tell Tom of Dwight's proposed party until this party was halfway through, and Tom, his hair ruffled and his eyes bright, had just sung with several others the bulldog song.

Lynn had thought he would rebel at the idea. But now, when his humor was expansive, now was the time to tell him.

She did so. He replied casually, "Swell; soup and fish, I suppose? Well, with a sponge and press, I can get by."

So, after all, he wouldn't mind going. Lynn was amazed to find herself slightly disappointed. Or was it that in this humor he didn't mind?

But next day he didn't mind, either. Stopping at her desk: "Nice of the old boy to ask me," he said carelessly. "Think how it will impress Gunboat."

He didn't mind because he'd be there with her.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The newly organized Junior Komic Club Orchestra of the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, consisting of the following members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club: John Gilbert, Mary Orsini, Joseph Orsini, Billy Patterson, David Bookwalter, June Apel, Jerry Tosen, Herbert Earhart and Virginia Gilbert, with John Gilbert conductor, gave its first performance Saturday. Any youngster who is a member of the Rowland Chapter who wants to join this orchestra should report tonight at 7:30 at the Garfield School for Music. Members will receive free instruction.

SNAPPY COMEBACK

One of the other managers said:

"I suppose you have a bunch of young fiddlers."

Dick replied:

In addition to the orchestra the members were introduced to little Betty Haslett, new mistress of ceremonies, who will have charge of the entertainment for the next four meetings.

The first number was an interpretation of the "Parade of the Wooden Soldier" and the "China Doll" performed by Janet Cleland and Zelda Walker. Harriet Grant gave a doll dance, followed by Betty Haslett singing "Put That Sun Back in the Sky." Zelda Walker tap danced and her little partner, Janet Cleland, followed with a cute toe dance. Dorothy Grace next offered an acrobatic tap dance and the stage show was closed by Mary Joan Louis singing "Somebody Loves You."

CAMERAPHONE MEETING

At the Cameraphone meeting the entertainment was furnished by pupils of Miss Florence Dunn's school of dancing. Those taking part were Mercedes Brinker and Irene Maloney in a song and dance; Virginia McMerkin, Irene Tiegel and Jean Kirkwood, dancers; Matilda Owens and Baby Gavotte and the Dugo Sisters, songs and dances. The combined group closed the entertainment part of the meeting with songs and a military tap dance.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, and name of your parents, school you attend, date and year of your birth, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Relief Assured

Governor's Conference Lays Solid Foundation for Action At Legislative Session.

Governor Pinchot has done well in bringing political leaders into agreement on a far reaching and comprehensive plan to meet relief problems when the Legislature goes into session on Monday.

The legislative program as drawn up is practically certain of passage in substantially its present form. It indicates that the conference of administrative, legislative and political leaders was not permitted to stop at half way measures.

It must be realized, however, that the Legislature will have something to do besides put its stamp of approval on the suggested measures. The exact amount of relief aid to be extended to individual communities still is undetermined as well as the exact manner in which funds are to be raised.

Besides providing for state aid to cities and counties for relief expenditures and extension of the borrowing powers of these political subdivisions, the proposed legislation calls for other steps to help the situation which are not direct relief measures.

Among these is a proposal to permit the secretary of banking to pledge the assets of closed banks as security for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This will hasten payments to depositors. The liquidity of Building and Loan Associations will be increased by permitting them to borrow from this government agency.

One measure of extreme importance will restore the mothers' assistance, hospital and university appropriations which were reduced to provide relief funds under the Talbot Act.

The conference has laid an excellent ground work for the special session. It is now up to the Legislature to see that sufficient relief funds will be provided to keep the unfortunate jobless from want next winter.

State to Certify Crops

Grading of Farm Products Should Make Them More Enticing to Our Marketers.

Products of Pennsylvania farms that come up to grades established by the State Department of Agriculture will be permitted to use a certificate that will be an official notification of the character of the product. The label—"A Pennsylvania Graded Farm Product"—will indicate to the purchaser that the apples, potatoes, eggs, etc., not only are a product of the state but conform to a standard of grading and packing set by the Bureau of Markets of the Department.

There are no better farms than those of Pennsylvania. True, the soil of the state is not the same in all parts and possibly not any of it is of the same nature as that of the famed corn belt of the midwest. Possibly not any of it is of the same nature as that of the great wheat-raising states. Yet there are places in Pennsylvania, where fine corn and wheat are grown. Mercer County is noted for high-grade potatoes. In counties as far apart as Lancaster and Tioga tobacco is among the chief crops. This is cited to indicate the diversity that is possible. With care, the finest apples can be grown almost anywhere in the state, but the limited lake shore of Erie County seems to have been reserved by nature for extensive grape-growing, although this fruit is quite an abundant crop in other regions, too.

We have the farms, and they are being pretty generally devoted to the uses to which they are adapted. Attention to keeping the product up to standard by cultivation and grading certainly will make the market responsive to its excellence.

Critic Is Answered

Even Restricted Summer Business Course Is of Benefit To Unemployed Worker.

A correspondent, J. B. Saines, appears to be a trifle captious in an implied criticism of our editorial commendation of the Board of Public Education for instituting summer schools for the unemployed that will be opened next Monday. He writes as follows:

"Many of your readers among the unemployed when they first read it regarded the editorial as welcome news, only to find out that the summer schools were not for the untrained unemployed, but to serve as more or less a post-graduate course for those who have had training in the subject.

"In other words, no one is admitted to the sessions of the business course unless they have had advanced instruction in typewriting, shorthand, etc."

Even so, the editorial was not a misstatement of facts, and the course mentioned will give unemployed persons admissable to it a chance to extend their technical knowledge. When the course opens it will have about 200 pupils, and surely they will be glad of an opportunity, even if some are not able to enter because of the restriction.

An officer of the Board of Education explains that scarcely anything of value could be taught a beginner in this course, limited to six weeks, and that such a person may attend the regular school courses throughout the year and acquire the fundamentals.

Railroads and Safety

Locomotive Explosion Warrants Thorough Study to Find Out If Repairs Were Neglected.

The blowing up of the boiler of a locomotive hauling the Capitol Limited comes at a time which warrants unusual care in the investigation to determine the cause of the accident which cost the lives of the engineer and fireman and endangered many passengers.

It is well known that nearly all the railroads of the United States have been delaying repair work in order to keep expenses down to the lowest possible level. This policy is being followed because of sharp reductions in the volume of traffic. Up to a certain point repairs can be put off without affecting safety. Beyond this point, the neglect of repair work directly imperils passengers and railroad employes.

At the present time it is not known whether this particular accident was unavoidable or whether it was due to neglect. But the fact that nearly all railroads, not just this particular one, have been skimping on expenses makes it of the utmost public importance to find the cause of the explosion.

The "Full" Dinner Plate

(Copyright, 1932.)

Words--Words--Words--

By George E. Phair

Lost in a storm of words he waits
In mingled hope and fear,
And hungrily he contemplates
The words that jar his ear,
The words that thunder down like hail,
As empty as his dinner pail.

His patient soul abhors the dole;
He asks for work alone—
The right to toil in mill or soil,
In coal or steel or stone,
The right to earn his daily bread,
They fling him lofty words instead.

High-sounding are the words they fling,
Mouth-filling words and fair,
But words can never ease the sting
Of hunger and despair,
With ruin lurking at the door
They give him words—and nothing more.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Restless Wives

There comes a time in every woman's life when she reaches the "Great Divide."

* * *

I don't mean death—I mean the great divide between youth and middle-age. The point at which she must stop being "39," and begin being "in the forties."

* * *

Any woman who marries, after that, takes an awfully long chance. Lucky the one, who still has her own good, old pre-war husband and hasn't been foolish enough to trade him in for a later model!

After 40, a woman should think a long time before she decides on a trip to Reno. Or, if she is single, before she decides on a trip to the altar.

She will find very few men around her own age who are free, single, and in the market for a wife. And even those few will be looking for something half her age. So, she will probably have to choose between being a young man's mother and an old man's nurse.

* * *

Between trying to keep up with a young man who has a stepping foot—and trying to slow down to an old man who has a sciatic leg. Between putting ice-bags on a young man's head and putting hot-water bottles on an old man's feet.

There's not much choice between trying to change the wild habits of a young man who hasn't settled down and trying to get used to the set habits of an old man who has positively "jelled."

Or between seeing a young man through one escapade after another—and pulling an old man through one attack of rheumatism after another. Or between taking a young man's neglect—and taking an old man's temperature.

But, that's about all the choice a woman has, [illegible]ned after 40. The rosy prospects of wondering what a young man is doing to amuse himself, when he is away from home all evening—or wondering what she is going to do to amuse an old man who is around the house all day.

The choice between assuring a young man that he is not going to LIVE if he keeps up the pace—and assuring an old one that he is not going to die if he keeps up the windows!

* * *

That's why I shiver, when I meet an attractive woman, in the early forties, who seems bored and restless—and on the point of detaching a fairly good husband. She has reached the most dangerous moment in her life—when nothing but a lot of common sense or a miracle can save her from doing something reckless or foolish!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 22.—New York hotels see little hope of an upshoot in receipts until winter at least. Summer always brings the lowest ebb, but right now there is almost complete stagnation. Nearly every hotel bond issue is in default. One giant inn is reputed to have 18 floors closed.

The seasonal migrations from the outlands thinned to a handful. European arrivals were scantiest since the war. As a result: Some of the biggest bargains since the days of the old Astor House. Suites notched at $30 a day went begging in some instances as low as $8.

The theory is naturally advanced that from a hotel standpoint the city is alarmingly overbuilt. Yet in normal times all were doing a splendid business and as no hotels have been built since the depression, it is believed the first show of prosperity will swamp them.

Thousands have been deferring visits to New York until skies clear and a stampede is expected at that time. Many employes are working two days a week to give the jobless a chance. A number of hotels include breakfast in the room rate. One makes no laundry charges

My father spent a lifetime running a $2-a-day country hotel on the American plan. There were 32 rooms and the "sample room," where drummers displayed wares. Waitresses were imported from Kansas City at $3 a week and board. The biggest spurt in business was "during county court," when the overflow was taken care of in hammocks on a verandah.

* * *

In one of the wide places in an Ohio road where I once made a temporary stay, the proprietor of the local hotel told me he refused to harbor "show folks." He expressed his objection inelegantly with: "They louse up the beddin'."

* * *

I regret an increasing lack of interest in the output of fellow columnists. Once I read them all avidly, but now seldom, unless attention has been called to some especial brilliancy. Doubtless they make me dispiritedly self-conscious—a feeling they have done the job so much better. So long as I read only my own I can kid myself I am quite a card.

* * *

In the actual heat of writing, every columnist has a secret notion he is the McCoy. The cooling process comes when he sees it in print. The edge that suggested cutting floating silk becomes as blunt as the Empire's silvered spire.

* * *

The best columns are generally turned out in haste. A mad scramble to catch a boat or attend a dinner party often spawns the richly unpredictable and vividly temperamental, whereas long planning results in a piece awkwardly labored. H. G. Wells summed it up with: "Writing is 90 per cent spontaneity."

To this day there is occasional reference to Anna Held's "milk baths" to preserve her complexion. Miss Held as late as 1910 laughingly denied the story at a tea I attended in her Rue St. Honore apartment in Paris. The whole thing was the inspiration of a press agent who rigged a milkman to file a fake suit for non-payment of gallons of bath milk. Similarly Lillian Russell never, of course, took a champagne bath—another absurdity of a wine agents' arrant fecundity.

* * *

The wine agent — "Count" George Kessler — used to furnish Miss Russell free cases of wine, as he did other stars of the day, and jokingly suggested to a Sunday feature writer that the actress bathed in it. The tale swept the world.

* * *

Even reporters received gifts of cases of wine in those days from Manny Chapelle, Maurice Levy and others of the Broadway champagne salesmen. The trouble was that most of us were attuned to beer appetites and wine meant nothing. It was given away. To drink it marked the sissie.

* * *

In a Waldorf elevator last evening I rode 26 stories with a woman passenger, extremely decollete and monocled. At the street level a quick stop unlodged the glass in a plink at my feet. And I was so confused, after restoring it, that I walked off sort of sidewise, idiotically dusting off my hands.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I have just read your letter.

You say you are unhappy.

You've lost the old job which you had for so many years; you're going to move away into a new town where you know no one, and you're miserable about it—so miserable, you say, you're "almost ready to quit."

There is nothing startling in that statement. One hears it everywhere, these days. There are a hundred letters in my mail every morning from "unhappy" people, who feel that it is useless to go on living if they must be unhappy.

Some of them have pretty serious reasons, too. Worse reasons than just losing a job or moving to a new place. Heart-breaking tragedies, betrayals or losses by deaths have wiped out everything they had. Scars remain that will keep them from ever being whole or joyful again. Small wonder they don't want to go on.

And, of course, I understand. I have been unhappy a great deal myself. I have plodded through days, through years, when life didn't seem worth while because I was so miserable.

Yet, in spite of all that, I have come to have a sort of contempt for our attitude toward happiness. It seems to me that there is something childish, something almost shameful, in our dependence on happiness—in our desire to quit if we can't be happy—like spoiled babies who won't play unless they can have the best toys.

The human race hasn't always felt like this about happiness. In fact, this idea that the healthy and worthwhile life must necessarily be a happy life is entirely a modern notion. It has come in with millions of other modern conveniences which make life soft and safe—and sappy!

Our forefathers had no such idea. They were quite willing to be happy whenever occasion afforded the opportunity, but they didn't bank on it. They didn't permit it to be a determining factor in shaping their program.

THEY EXPECTED TO BE UNHAPPY.

THEY BELIEVED THAT UNHAPPINESS WAS AS NORMAL A PART OF LIFE AS HAPPINESS, AND AS NECESSARY FOR GROWTH.

THEY PREPARED THEMSELVES TO BE UNHAPPY.

THEY FELT THAT A REAL MAN LIVED AS STRENUOUSLY, AS ENTHUSIASTICALLY AND AS ABUNDANTLY WHEN HE WAS UNHAPPY AS WHEN HE WAS HAPPY—

AND THEY HAD NO USE WHATEVER FOR CRY BABIES AND QUITTERS.

And I think they had the dope. Happiness is a delightful thing; but why should mature people demand happiness in order to live richly, any more than they should demand pink wall paper and violet sachet?

Often I think of something which that stiff-necked, two-fisted old fighting Christian, Saint Paul, once said. History does not record that he was ever a very gleeful person; but he certainly wanted to have his own way, and for many years he saw to it that he did.

If ever a man was bent on having his own grim conception of happiness, it was Saint Paul; yet he was fated to endure agonizing years of disappointment and disaster. But he stood steadfast as a great rock through it all, putting his personal prejudice and pleasure aside with proud contempt, as a warrior lays aside the silken trappings of his idle, foolish days

And down the years come his words, a ringing challenge to those feeble souls who are not able to dispense with happiness.

"WHEN I WAS A CHILD, I SPAKE AS A CHILD, I UNDERSTOOD AS A CHILD, I THOUGHT AS A CHILD; BUT WHEN I BECAME A MAN, I PUT AWAY CHILDISH THINGS. FOR NOW WE SEE THROUGH A GLASS, DARKLY; BUT THEN FACE TO FACE—"

Happiness was a childish thing to Saint Paul; a lovely but not a necessary thing. A man could do without it. A man had to do without it if he accepted the full challenge of existence, took all the risks, made all the experiments a man must make. And a man could bear "to see through a glass darkly," to look at life through the darkness of his own tears, his own loneliness and bewilderment—AND STILL GO ON.

FOR LIFE WAS WORTH ANY UNHAPPINESS IT COST!

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

Hell is full of good meanings and wishes.

An unlawful oath is better broke than kept.

When the last man alive on this globe gives up the ghost then the animals will have something to live for.

Prosperity Loan Needed

By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser

As Congress approaches the time for adjournment, its members should not forget that the main desire of the American people is relief from the throes of depression and deflation.

The way out of chaos lies in intelligent co-operation between government and industry, not in any magic governmental action.

Yet with upwards of 8,000,000 persons without employment, the country will be deeply resentful if Congress adjourns without contributing all that lies within its power toward economic rehabilitation.

IT is a fundamental error to assume that no desirable, necessary or useful work in the way of permanent improvements is available.

The people would draw dividends in use and in satisfaction for many years from a public investment in improvement of highways, bridges and tunnels, in reclamation and flood control projects, reforestation and elimination of grade crossings, as well as in the erection of public buildings.

Achievement of a satisfactory public works program depends on federal co-operation with the states and municipalities, and on an alert and enthusiastic executive in the White House.

It is academic to talk of the cost in interest and amortization of a vast bond issue to finance public works. It is far less than the cost of unchecked depression and unemployment, which Col. Malcolm C. Rorty, in the Harvard Business Review, recently placed at more than 50 billions of dollars. The lost work-power of millions of idle persons cannot be recovered later when optimism returns; it will have been permanently frittered away.

ADMINISTRATION opposition to relief through a federal bond issue, which is the cheapest method under present conditions for raising capital, is ill considered. If public works are financed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which in turn sells its debentures to the United States Treasury, the basis of such financing will still be the federal credit.

A $5,000,000,000 federal bond issue, sold as needed to finance constructive public works, would help to galvanize the Federal Reserve System's attempt to promote recovery through credit expansion.

At present, the Federal Reserve campaign is frustrated because the best credit risks see no incentive for borrowing, with business at current depressed levels.

If the government projected huge orders for raw materials for public works, supply and demand would at length be on the side of recovery, and the great private business enterprises would see an opportunity to use bank credit profitably.

INSTEAD of taking capital and credit from private industry, as the faint-hearted fear, the new bonds would be a means for redirecting the flow of savings and bank credit into job-giving private industry.

Once the deadlock was broken by governmental initiative, confidence would return, and latent factors, making for recovery, would reassert themselves.

Since the Hearst newspapers first suggested the prosperity loan more than a year ago, conditions have gotten considerably worse.

Recognizing the inadequacy of orthodox, stopgap remedies, which have not checked the decline, Congress should forthwith reach a climax for its present session by authorizing a bond issue large enough and comprehensive enough in scope to act as a lever to accelerate counter deflationary measures.

After the collapse which has taken place, the opportunity is large for a job-creating crusade for social reconstruction.

A HUMAN LEECH

By Winifred Black

He's going to Europe—the man we all know—and then he's going to Africa, or maybe to Asia, or perhaps down to the South Sea Islands; and when he comes back, he's going to change his club. He told me about it the other day.

"I'm being eaten alive," he said, "like the fly in a spider's web; and I never realized it until lately.

"You know I left home two years ago," he went on, "and I guess Mabel was glad to get rid of me. I should think she would have been delighted, when I look back and see what a fool I've been. Let me tell you about it.

"Three years ago, up in the Adirondacks, Mabel and I met a delightful man. He was clever, witty, a philosopher, a thinker, a man of imagination and of great world-deep experience.

"I'm by way of being a dabster at philosophy, you know, and I'd been making a study of comparative religions; and so this man and I had wonderful talks when we sat by the great fire in camp, after the moon rose.

"Mabel was there, too, and she and the trees listened while the man and I talked.

"He was awfully nice to Mabel and seemed to admire her very much, at first. Then, somehow, he didn't seem to feel that Mabel appreciated him. I don't know just how he did it, but in some way he made me begin to be sorry for myself, about Mabel.

"Good girl, of course; well-meaning and devoted and all that sort of thing, but hopelessly dull. How could a serious man care seriously for her? It was that sort of a feeling.

"When we got home I got to taking long walks with this man, late at night. Up and down the town we wandered, talking, talking, talking. And then, finally, I began to suspect that the man didn't care particularly for me, or my ideas. He was just making a study of me.

"He didn't give me a minute's peace. He popped in at the club. He looked into the apartment at home. He arrived at meal times and took pot luck.

"Mabel was tired of him, and so was I, really; but he flattered me, and I quarreled with Mabel about it. Mabel said she wouldn't have him coming to the house messing things up; so I said I'd live at the club. She said if I did I could go on living there, and I did.

"And that man simply ran me ragged. He knew all my friends. He knew all my business. He read all the books I read, and if I went to see a play and didn't ask him, he went to see it the next night and bobbed up after the show to talk it over with me. I began to have as much privacy as the President of the United States.

"I got so I hated the sight of him. I hated his voice and I hated his walk and I hated his ideas; but I couldn't get rid of him. He stuck like a leech. He knew my balance at the bank. He knew who owed me money, and he had me turned inside out like an old fur-lined coat.

"Well, the other day I met Mabel in the street. Gee, she looked pretty! We had a bite together at a little place we knew, and today we're starting to Europe and way stations—Mabel and I. And I hope I'll never see the leech again."

I know it was true, because Mabel has been telling me about it for months.
